A Legacy of Love: The Gift of Breath for Our Community!

Dear Friends and Members,

Too often, our updates are filled with the heavy realities of our condition. We usually spend our time together discussing the latest clinical trials, navigating complex medication lists, and sharing news about sickness or struggle. While those updates are necessary, they can sometimes weigh heavy on the spirit.

But today, we are hitting "pause" on the clinical newsletter. Today, we are sharing a story about the power of human kindness.

We have some incredibly good news for one of our own.

Recently, the widow of a beloved patient at NCH—a man who fought the same battles many of us fight—reached out in her time of grief. She wanted her husband’s legacy to be one of help, not loss. She donated his portable oxygen concentrator to NCH with a simple wish: that it goes to someone who truly needs it.

Recognizing the strength and bond of our group, NCH reached out to the Naples Pulmonary Rehab Club.

We are overjoyed to announce that this life-changing device is now in the hands of a fellow club member who has been in urgent need of this specific support. Where there was once a barrier to mobility, there is now freedom. Where there was worry, there is now relief.

This is why we are here!

We want to express our deepest, most profound gratitude to the donor family. In their darkest moment, they chose to be a light for someone else. We also thank our partners at NCH for facilitating this beautiful connection and ensuring this gift stayed within our local pulmonary community.

Let this act of generosity serve as a spark for all of us.

We are not just a group of patients managing symptoms; we are a community that lifts one another up. Let this story encourage you to contribute even more to our cause in whatever way you can.

Whether it is offering a ride, sharing a kind word, donating equipment you no longer need, or making a modest financial contribution to support the vitality of our club, please know that every gesture matters. No matter the size of the gift or the act of service, you are helping us sustain this lifeline for our members.

Let's continue to breathe easier, together.

With gratitude and hope,

Oscar Escobar
