

Summary

Gracia Rios is an actor musician born in Malaga. She studied violin at the conservatoire of Málaga for 10 years.

After that, she started her theatre studies, attending a Master Degree in Musical Theatre at Mountview University (London). She was part of several Spanish theatre companies and of the cast of the musical Giraffes Can't dance in the UK (2019-2020). Besides, thanks to her master thesis, she developed her own solo clown performance about sex education: The Lesson, which was part of Maiden Speech Festival (London), Old Red Lion Theatre Festival (London), and several online festivals, getting great reviews.

Since August 2022 until October 2024, she has been part of the ensemble at NTL-Odin Teatret, working as violinist, actress, pedagogue and project leader in numerous projects and performances. She recently started her company, Grapa Teatro, together with Pablo Lara.
