

Spiritual Journey of Robert Wilson

My life's spiritual journey began at about 8 to 10 years old. At that time, I made an attempt to contact God. I felt a spiritual energy in my heart and mind. I felt that God was real. But I knew very little about Him/Her, nor about the order or organization of the Universe.

In my teens I was rather stagnated, not progressing much spiritually. But when I went to college at the University of Colorado, I became interested in Jesus. There I found like-minded individuals in the Campus Crusade for Christ, a nationwide non-denominational Christian group. Though I learned more about Jesus, I felt something was not right. I did not know what.

I quit college and joined the Army since I had 3 years of ROTC in High School and 2 years of ROTC in college. While in the Army I had a roommate who was a member of the Latter-day Saints (LDS). He asked me if I wanted to learn about the Mormons. Since I had a cousin who was Mormon, I said OK. I learned about the continuation of revelation through a prophet and through personal spiritual guidance. This seemed to make some sense, so I joined. A couple things bothered me, first that revelation came through a few leaders, and that they believed Christ died for our sins. I tentatively accepted this but felt uneasy. I sensed that spirituality was mostly individual but could find nothing better than the LDS faith.

In the early 1970's I started to hear voices, both male and female, both dark and light to my perception. It was confusing to me. I made this known to my military leadership and they put me in the hospital and labeled me schizophrenic. At one point I felt attacked by darkness and it affected my senses. I had what they called visual, auditory, tactile and olfactory hallucinations. I had these for several years and I did not know what was going on. These largely went away by the late 1980's.

In 1992 I heard about The Urantia Book and began reading it. It explained a lot in detail that made sense to me. This book explained the situation on this world which I could understand. I learned about the nature of God. I learned of Christ Michael leading our Local Universe and His coming to Earth (Urantia) as Jesus. I learned about the Lucifer rebellion that affected our world and 36 others. I learned we were in quarantine from the Celestial circuits. I learned that Christ did not die for our sins, that a just God would not subject a son to the errors of others. Instead others could overcome their error by changing their lives not because a son paid for such by his own blood. The notion of animal sacrifice was not God's way--this was the error of the Lucifer rebellion mindset.

Later, about 2003 I heard of the Correcting Time and Teaching Mission, and I knew the celestials were re-establishing contact. I heard that the adjudication of Lucifer, Satan and Caligastia (those who rebelled against our Creator) happened in the 1980's. This adjudication made it possible for a great change to happen, a change that I partially experienced. I learned that we have the individual ability to experience a relationship with God and the other celestials. I have experienced personal spiritual guidance with my guardians Celia and Susannah through the blessing of celestial communication. We can use this connection with our universe family to spiritually grow and live better lives.

Spiritual unity is possible and is important to our own growth and education. Each of us have our own life experiences with God and other celestials and together we have the responsibility to share this with others. They need to know that celestials are here to help guide us to a better future. We no longer need priests or ministers to lead us. Celestials are here to teach us and through TRs (people who can receive their communications), our celestial family can show us improved ways to live and answer our many questions. Thousands of transcripts are available on a great number of topics to impart to us a small part of celestial knowledge as it pertains to humanity.

We have been taught that our world was caught in a rebellion over 200,000 years ago and only in the last 35 years or so has this begun to change. We are told that it will take hundreds of years for our planet to recover. The rebellion mindset has adversely affected our planet and its people. As a result of this mindset, a small number of people have gained power and authority over many of our people, and it is up to us to change this by changing ourselves. We need to be schooled in the 7 core values of humanity: Life, Equality, Growth, Quality of Life and the values of emotion known as Empathy, Compassion and Love of humanity.

When correctly applied and lived these values will bring our planet into a sustainable situation. At the moment we are on our way to destruction by damaging our environment and abusing our world's resources. This must change by taking care of our world and ourselves, by reducing an out-of-control population, stopping the use poisons in air and soil and ending the burning of fossil fuels. We must also greatly slow down the wastefulness of many resources happening in our throw-away societies. For instance, we now build obsolescence into our products which should last much longer. We could spare some resources simply by ending obsolescence.

In essence, our spiritual welfare includes our personal growth and our physical and environmental sustainability. In all things there should be moderation and conservation. To be sustainable we have to change our mindset away from procuring more and more things, to change from an obsession of wants to the essentials of needs and to make better use of what we already have. Experiencing balance in this area is satisfying. As to spirit, the fundamental spiritual teaching of Jesus was the Fatherhood of God and the brother and sisterhood of humanity with love for each other.

My spiritual growth has come from both celestial and earthly experiences. Earthly growth has been from what I have read and heard from audiobooks and other people and from the experience of applying what I have learned, seen and felt into a life of action. I have learned patience and love for others. I have gained trust in my guardians and rely on them when in need but also with everyday things. I have come to value other people more than before. Empathy and compassion have played important roles in my growth. Life has been more gratifying as a result. Celestials have been important to my development by what they have shown me through others and shared directly with me. Many of us in this age of opening the celestial circuits are blessed with this communication. It is a wonderful time to be alive.
