

Birthday Treats

Lena brought cupcakes for her birthday. Everyone got one, but Jordan is allergic to dairy and couldn't eat his.

Is it fair if everyone gets the same cupcake? What could Lena or the teacher do to make sure Jordan gets included?

Group Project

Everyone in the group is supposed to do the same amount of work. But Mia finds reading hard and takes longer. Her groupmates get annoyed.

Should Mia be expected to do the same work in the same way? How can her group be fair while helping her?

The Art Contest

There's an art contest with one winner. Lucas has fancy paints and lots of supplies at home. Ruby only has a pencil and notebook.

Is it fair to judge them the same way? What could be done to give everyone an equal chance?

Writing Time

Everyone has to write a full page. Hannah has trouble holding a pencil and her hand gets tired quickly.

Is asking everyone to write the same amount fair? What could help Hannah succeed?

Help with Homework

Everyone gets the same maths homework. Maria understands it easily. Jamal struggles and doesn't have anyone at home to help him.

Is giving the same homework to everyone fair? What could the teacher do to help Jamal?

The Music Show

Everyone in the class gets one try to play an instrument for the school music show. Mark has taken lessons. Ella has never touched an instrument before.

Should they both be judged the same way? How could we give Ella a fair chance?

Reading Time

During silent reading, everyone reads for 15 minutes. Liam reads big chapter books. Sophie is learning English and just started reading simple words.

Should everyone read the same thing for the same time? Is there a way to make reading time fairer for Sophie?

The Broken Crayons

During the art lesson, everyone got the same number of crayons. But Ava's crayons were old and broken, while Noah's were brand new.

Is it fair if everyone gets the same number, even if some don't work well? What would you do?

New Shoes

Ben runs really fast in PE because he has new running shoes. Jayden's shoes have holes and no grip, so he slips a lot in races.

Is it fair that Ben always wins the races? What could we do to make the races fair for everyone?
