Epilogue

The genetic study of cognitive ability suggests that there are variations in human DNA today that, if ideally combined, could give rise to individuals with qualitatively higher intelligence than has ever existed on Earth: crudely speaking, IQs on the order of 1,000, if the scale still made sense.

From STEPHEN HSU,

Super-Intelligent Humans Are Coming

Genetic engineering will one day create the smartest humans who have ever lived.

The Denisovans or Denisova hominins are an extinct species or subspecies of archaic human that ranged across Asia during the Lower and Middle Paleolithic. Denisovans are known from few physical remains, and, consequently, most of what is known about them comes from DNA evidence.

The Denisovan genome from Denisova Cave has variants of genes which, in modern humans, are associated with dark skin, brown hair, and brown eyes. The Denisovan genome also contains a variant region around the EPAS1 gene that in Tibetans assists with adaptation to low oxygen levels at high elevation, and in a region containing the WARS2 and TBX15 loci which affect body-fat distribution in the Inuit. In Papuans, introgressed Neanderthal alleles are highest in frequency in genes expressed in the brain, whereas Denisovan alleles have highest frequency in genes expressed in bones and other tissue.

Introduction

Philosophy is the mother of all sciences and is the matrix of all ideas; the disciplines created by civilized humanity to codify these sciences are only a set of formulas that allow theorizing about the different variations and passivities, but the complete truth does not require codification, because it is simple.

In a world on the verge of self-destruction due to human irresponsibility towards biodiversity and nature, and seeing that despite many efforts our habits of dependence on the most harmful energy sources for the atmosphere and for our own organism in order to sustain the current contemporary socio-economic and industrial reality are little changed.

Indeed, the world needs a radical change in relation to energy consumption, a change as transcendental as the expansion of the electricity consumption industry in the world in the last two centuries was in the past.

Our Planet produces so much electromagnetic or electrical energy that it is irresponsible for all of us to leave the destiny of the world in the hands of a few who only think of getting rich by selling electronic devices and means of locomotion designed to make them richer while perpetuating the consumption of polluting energies, more and more polluting.

Moreover, no amount of material means can compensate for the irreparable damage done to the Planet, as well as the damage that certain adaptations of technology, including cell phone technology, have been shown to cause to human beings, not to mention the misuse of nuclear energy, as well as other alleged advances that do not solve the main problem of clean energy and electricity available and affordable for all.

Abstract

The Universe and everything in it in existence is composed of vibratory matter or what is the same, energy, energy in motion.

According to the density of the vibratory waves and the capacity of perception and the human or individual's own technology, the universe and its reality are perceived and measured in a certain way.

According to the dominance of the human being and his technology of vibratory matter, his economic, social and industrial reality has been transforming with much haste and without much pause.

Today, however, while technology is moving unison towards the maximization of capitalism and consumerism, and while we continue to bombard the ozone layer with our disinterest and ignorance, we will always remember the great ones like Tesla who, without giving many names and codifications to things, understood that energy is everything, and everything is energy.

Our thoughts, feelings or ideas are energy, energy that can be clearly seen with an electroencephalogram, and in a more subtle way in the willpower and persistence that, at different frequency and intensity generates movement, energy that we use in different ways.

Sin, or sinning, is to do or be in contact with all that which our soul rejects even though it pleases our senses.

It is to practice, to act, to relapse in that which inhibits our freedom and will. And just as we all sin, we can all stop sinning, and that is what spiritual and Christian practice consists of.

The goal of prosperity and abundance is to maximize the creation of prosperity and abundance for others.

What is Ethereal Electromagnetic Energy™ (EEE™)?

The Ethereal Electromagnetic Energy™ (EEE™) is the vibratory wave force that creates and surrounds everything that exists in the universe and is perceptible in the form of sound, light, mass and energy, and even the immaterial or invisible.

It is at the same time, the Ethereal Electromagnetic Energy™ or EEE™ the intelligent energy and creative force that humanity can perceive as electricity, color, heat or wisdom.

It is the energy or force that, according to the instruments we manufacture to adapt and manipulate it for our use with our electronic and technological devices, we give it one name or another, and so different sciences, philosophies and schools of knowledge, technique and technology are created, but in the end they are just different ways of perceiving, manipulating and distributing the universal vibratory energy or EEE™.

The phenomenon of vibratory polarity causes humanity not to take advantage of the true indivisible power of the infinite energy that surrounds us and of which we are an intrinsic part and of which we are directly connected.

That indivisible power, unalterable but changeable not only with devices as technology demonstrates, but also with the mind and our own intelligent being, that shapes us and gives life, and that surrounds and crosses all matter as it forms it from the most invisible molecule, is the vital force of the universe that we use to exist, which is simple and subtle immaterial vibratory energy and that gives life to everything that exists.

In the organic and biological world for example, the EEE™ creates the protoplasm that is the living material that gives life to the cells in biological organisms, and in turn is pure ethereal electromagnetic energy and thus creates the cellular material life, manifesting the fundamental physiological properties of organic matter, such as metabolism, reproduction and irritability.

So, really, the technology that can be created on the development of EEE™ energy allows us to be optimistic about the energy future of the planet, because the best that the present should provide for the future are solutions for the reversal of atmospheric pollution, the transformation of the industrial and production model, as well as the consumption habits of the global market.

Of course, the question of the abundance and availability of energy on the planet is also the issue that raises the most questions for commercial interests in the sector, but considering that it is precisely the States and operators in the energy industry that are the main stakeholders in reducing the cost, production, pollution and energy consumption, it is also in their hands to lead the transformation that a new way of looking at the energy industry can bring to the whole world.

SEE ON AMAZON

A green industrialization is not an impossible myth, since by changing the type of energy we use to mobilize our economic and social life, we also change our approach to what energy really is and what we ourselves are as intelligent beings, since we are nothing more than intelligent energy that in substance forms individualized biological organisms that we collectively perceive as a species, humanity.

“When Martin Luther King said he had a dream,
he was talking about you and me.”

Eric Thomas

We are not our memories, for we cannot be what is past. We are our good wishes and our vision, we are our future on its way to materialization.

The Magic of Energy Manipulation (EEE™ or BariteMagic™ Wireless Regulator).

When humanity reaches a clearer mastery of energy science, it will clearly understand that its mind is nothing but a powerful quantum computer that works with the same energy that forms everything, from the atoms of the cells to the lava of a volcano, and the more subtle immaterial substantial essence of that energy, the EEE™ will transform the relationship between the human being and the environment that surrounds him, and will enhance the knowledge of the human being as an organism in constant emission and reception of energy and vibratory waves, that is, of information, and a better processing and utilization of that information will expand and improve the levels of adaptation to the environment, improve the quality of life and the knowledge of humanity.

In this way, learning the possible ways to regulate and manipulate that energy, and combining it with the necessary devices to be able to materialize practically everything that our mind can imagine, conceive, the world that we know or knew, will be something of the past and of oblivion.

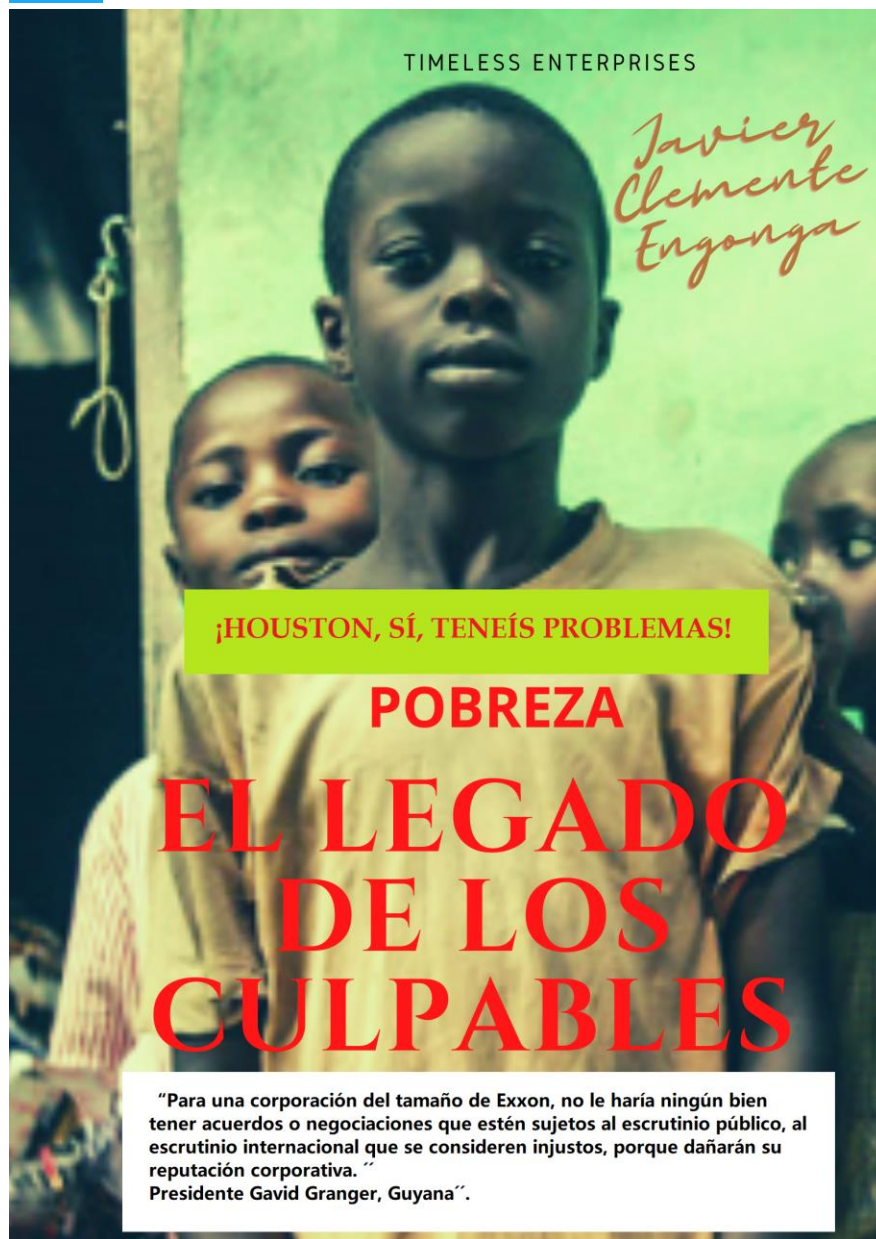

The best gift for the world is clean and free energy, but even more so for the States and industry companies, because it will allow them to control the most important part that guarantees substantial profits that do not depend on the consumer, but on the consumption of clean and free energy, since the new devices that will be adapted to this new energy will be the new logical source of income for the sector, while little by little society and industry will abandon the use of traditional energy and polluting industry.

Likewise, the availability of new materials with more optimal qualities such as semiconductors or for processing data and information at greater speed and capacity, allow us to affirm that perhaps the next socioeconomic revolution will be an energy revolution, which will allow the evolution and overcoming of the technical-industrial legacy inherited from the 17th century, and will establish a scientific-technological model in which nothing will be impossible and life will be more comfortable for everyone and thus, more peaceful and bearable.

It does not matter so much your defects today, if you know with certainty that the only strength of your Soul and the only objective of your life is to reach the existential perfection on the objectives of your celestial Mission in the world, in life and in this material plane.

Unlimited Potential

Science already knows this, but it needs to put into practice the knowledge about the beneficial qualities of sound or vibrational waves for human health and quality of life.

Although many studies have already affirmed this question especially with respect to music, it is also known that different frequencies with values below what our auditory senses can perceive, have healing effects for the nervous system and for life in general.

Previous civilizations such as the Egyptian or Sumerian used this technology, as another way to manipulate and use the vibrational energy or EEE™, but the knowledge has been lost since the human being, instead of focusing on the energy itself, has focused on the different points and levels of frequency that is, the manifestations of the same EEE™ energy, and thus, depending on the power or frequency, has given it one name or another, and has created one type of machinery or another to capture, regulate, manipulate and even distribute the energy.

Energy is unlimited, as Newton and Tesla demonstrated, which makes the limitation we are giving to the energy potential of humanity irrational.

Currently, the limitation is both scientific and political, of private regulations and corporate interests, forgetting the most obvious and that is that energy is free and belongs to everyone.

Now, instead of focusing on the limitations, the smart thing to do is for the regulators and corporations that already control the sector to use their resources to promote the alternatives of the future, in which they themselves will become the operators, and will have no competition, because it will not be necessary.

SEE ON AMAZON

Time will show, and with time it will be known, that humanity cannot be limited eternally.

If in other times humanity already lived in a certain way, and with advances and technology that today we can only consider as future, it is intelligent to understand that they were not and will not be reached following the course of technologies and the use of energy in the present.

The greatness of the spirit is always humble, and shines in the souls of people who have learned to suffer with a smile, and have stopped fighting against life, becoming masters of their own existence.

JCE

Prosperity must be our goal but never at the price of the damnation of our souls.

Energy of Intelligence, Energy of God

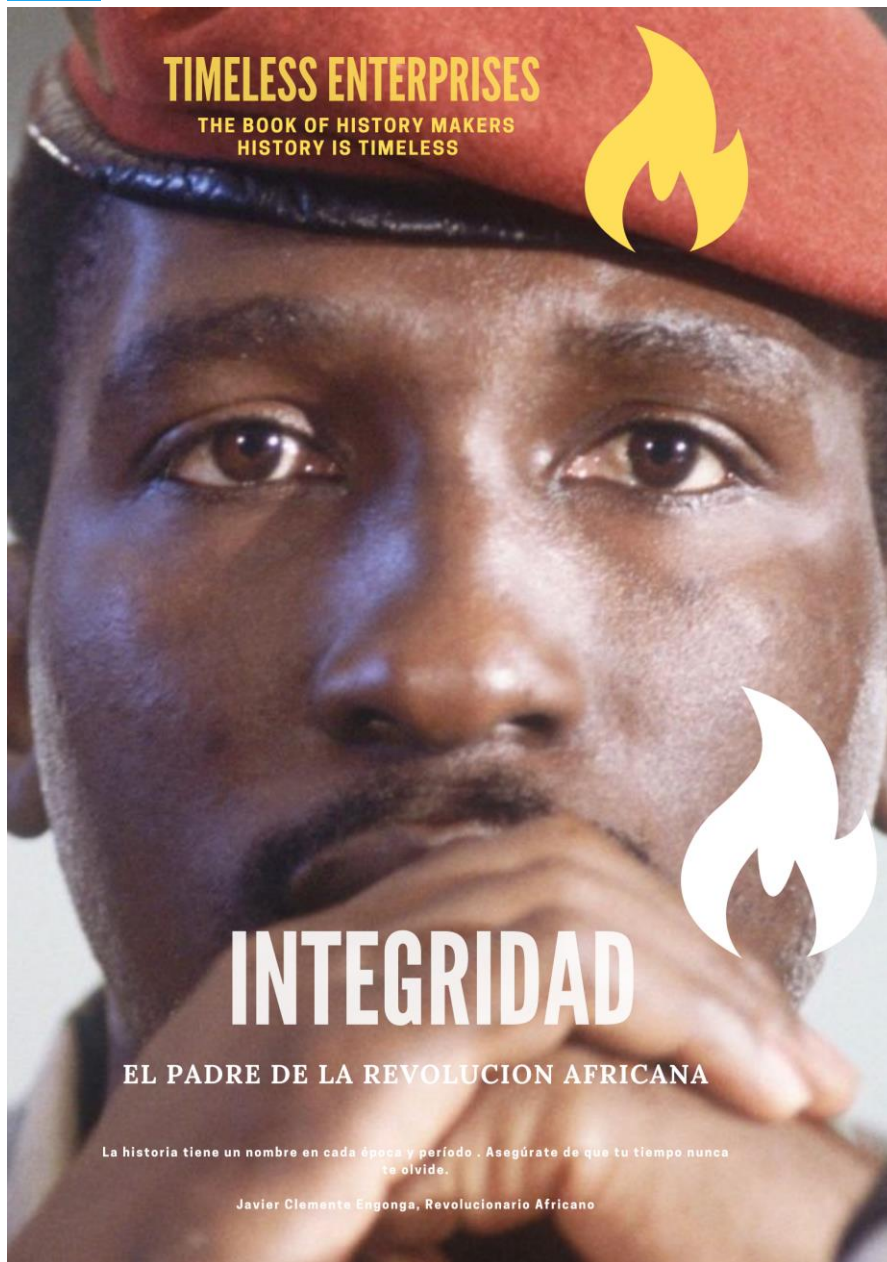

The truth is that humanity must look back a little better, and read even the writings of the old civilizations to understand what is possible in the present and what can make the future a very different place.

The world was created by its Creator as a place of abundance, where scarcity was not possible, and the Wisdom manifested in intelligence has been the discovering light of all the scientific and technological advances that make possible the reality we all enjoy today.

When we prefer not to observe with attention and not to practice what is best for the Planet, we are delaying the Destiny of Humanity, that encounter between limitations and totality.

This is what all the scientific and literary knowledge of antiquity reveals and is what the most liberal scientists and philosophers aspire to.

The consumers will always be satisfied with technologies that are more efficient and economical, more environmentally friendly and affordable, and that make their existence more productive.

As these technologies develop, the consumer also adapts rapidly to change.

The consumer evolves in the same way as the science and technology of his time, so the market should not be limited to the narrow interests of corporations or regulators, only because of their fear of change, because change is inevitable as part of evolution, development and progress.

Science has a strong foundation in philosophy, because science is knowledge, an objective philosophical knowledge.

SEE ON AMAZON

So it is not improbable that in a very short time instead of a device that allows us to communicate with each other, such as the telephone or the computer, it will be replaced by a communication more focused on the transmission of energy, data and information and it will be processed without the need of the current electronic devices or at least, not following the current model of energy use and physical design.

The world will change, when we stop limiting the world since the world is God's and God is Unlimited and Infinite.

The path to our best manifestation is a journey into the depths of the universe, a journey from which we must return victorious and share with existence our perfection of spirit for eternity.

A life without effort and suffering at some point as part of the didactic process of one's own existence is a life that has not known how to identify its own meaning, a life that has not been worthwhile.

Epilogue

Sometimes, as on this occasion, I feel like writing the Epilogue long before finishing the book, but perhaps it is because I understand that the end and the beginning are always linked.

Dear Reader, I want you to know from my experience that life is never what it seems, but in the end, as in the beginning, it always gives everyone what they deserve.

I know that impatience prevents us from looking clearly at the horizon and not seeing the beauty of what we project with the energy of who we are in the lives of others, of all those who know us or observe us from afar.

I want you to know, Dear Reader, that the only thing God wants for humanity is a better world for the human being, and I know this because history shows us that thanks to scientific and technological advances, the human being lives in fact, progressively much better in the present than in the past, with a better quality of life.

If only we knew that, if only we were aware that what awaits us is the best and not the worst, welfare and prosperity and not shortages and wars, from now on we would all get down to work together in this divine project of the Creation of the Kingdom of God, of the perfect world.

Thank you for reading these lines.

We must serve God with dedication and decision; not with doubts and without submission. Perhaps that is why faith is so important, because it is certainty without evidence and that simply pleases God because it demonstrates effort and endurance.

Silence is a miracle. Listen to its sound and you will learn to understand the universe.

About the Author

My name is Javier CLEMENTE ENGONGA AVOMO, I am an entrepreneur, author and Christian, Master in Business Administration (MBA) from the European Graduate Institute (IEP) of Spain, and with undergraduate studies in international trade and economics from Xiangtan University (Hunan 湘潭大学), People's Republic of China.

In my youth, I also worked as a civil servant, as Director General of National Content in the Petroleum Industry and Inspector General of National Content in the Ministry of Mines, Industry and Energy (2010–2013), Director General of Business Promotion and Private Investment (2013–April 2015) and Director General of Trade (June 2015–2019), respectively, in Equatorial Guinea.

For me, youth is something that is lost when we become aware, when we live consciously and when we live being consistent with our actions and responsibilities.

Not everyone has political ambitions, because some of us only have ambitions for peace and prosperity for all, that's all.

That is why I am a servant of Christ-God, and the blood of Christ-God protects me, and that is why I write not to forget, for in life we all forget, for forgetting is part of this great dream of life, that life that we strive to understand but can we really?

Can we really?<https://www.javierclementelibros.com/>
