Emergency Department Nurse Expert Witness

General Background

Helen Jones is an experienced NMC-registered nurse with a diverse background in Accident & Emergency (A&E), and Acute Medicine. Since qualifying in 2013, she has worked across emergency departments, acute medical units, and urgent care settings, developing strong expertise in medical emergencies, triage assessment, and all aspects of general nursing.

Helen has a specialist focus on managing acute medical conditions, including respiratory and cardiovascular emergencies, sepsis, and medicines management. She is highly skilled in advanced resuscitation, patient triage (including ambulance-referred and ambulatory patients), acute illness recognition, and pain management.

In addition to her clinical expertise, Helen has extensive experience in patient assessment, care planning, implementation, and evaluation. She has held leadership roles overseeing clinical governance, staff training, competency development, and clinical audits.

Helen continues to practice as a nurse within the Emergency Department providing opinions that are both relevant and aligned with an evolving healthcare profession. Passionate about maintaining high standards in nursing care, she holds a postgraduate mentorship qualification in nursing and regularly engages in training and continuing professional development.
