Emergency Aid of Boulder City

Emergency Aid of Boulder City (EABC), an incorporated nonprofit since 1966, is run almost entirely by volunteers and was built on the principle of neighbors helping neighbors. For generations, it has been a lifeline for local residents facing unexpected challenges.

From the historic Department of Water & Power building, EABC provides food pantry support, emergency financial assistance, and aid to stranded travelers. Its work is made possible through grants and the generosity of community businesses and individuals; helping families stay housed, keep the lights on, and put meals on the table.

Beyond immediate assistance, EABC strengthens the fabric of the community through programs that bring people together. The annual school supply drive sets local students up for success, while the Boulder City Angels make sure children in struggling families and seniors don't go without holiday joy.

Together with its neighbors, EABC remains a trusted cornerstone of care and compassion in Boulder City.

A Message from Our President

I am honored to serve as the current President of Emergency Aid of Boulder City (EABC). Our mission is simple yet powerful — to provide emergency food and financial assistance to Boulder City residents and stranded travelers in need.

Tonight marks a very special occasion: our first-ever Boulder Impact Gala (BIG). The gala is both an award dinner and a charity fundraising event dedicated to honoring the remarkable individuals who make our community stronger through their leadership and generosity.

On this inaugural BIG night, we are proud to honor Jack and Sandy Edwards for their lifetime of service and enduring generosity to Boulder City. Their example reminds us all of the power of compassion and community.

I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks to everyone attending tonight, as well as to all our donors and sponsors for their invaluable support. A special thank you also goes to the dedicated volunteers of EABC, whose hard work makes our mission possible, and to Father Alex for graciously allowing us to use the St. Andrew Community Center for this event.

The goal of tonight's gala is clear — to raise the funds needed to provide thousands of meals and to help local families stay in their homes. Together, we are making a BIG impact in Boulder City. Thank you for being part of this important and inspiring evening.

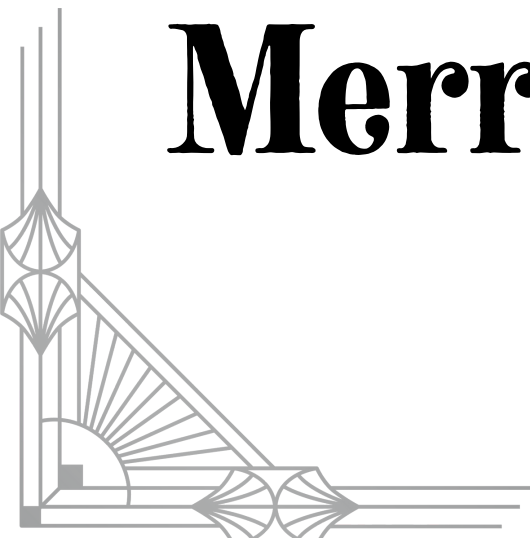

With gratitude,
Kathleen Morris

Boulder Impact Award 2025

Few couples have given more of themselves to Boulder City than Jack and Sandy Edwards.

Jack's life has been defined by service and leadership, from earning the Distinguished Flying Cross during the Vietnam War to teaching, mentoring Eagle Scouts, and strengthening EABC through fundraising and grants.

Sandy devoted her career to caring for others, serving as both an operating room and school nurse for generations of local families. Her compassion also extended beyond work, bringing communion to the homebound and elderly alongside Jack.

Together, they've raised six children, run local businesses, and volunteered tirelessly; supporting charities, youth programs, and nature education for children each summer.

Tonight, we celebrate the extraordinary impact of their lives and the generosity that continues to lift our community.

Making an impact and moving forward.

The work of compassion continues.

Emergency Aid of Boulder City exists because of neighbors who give what they can. Financial gifts of any size, recurring donations, and contributions of nonperishable food and household items all provide stability and dignity to struggling local families.

Equally vital are its volunteers, because EABC is its volunteers. Nearly every service, from stocking the pantry to assisting clients with financial paperwork to organizing events, is carried out by dedicated individuals who freely give their time and hearts.

To join or support this work, visit eabcnv.org. Together, we can ensure that the spirit of helping neighbors endures well beyond tonight.
