

Makenna Jobes

Creative, skilled, determined

As a 12th grader fueled by curiosity, I'm captivated by the intersection of data science, computer science, and AI as tools to uncover insights and shape the future. I love to analyze datasets, craft code, and envision AI's potential to solve real-world puzzles. Eager to deepen these skills in college, I aim to push the boundaries of technology and data to create meaningful change in our world.

Interests

I pursue a dynamic mix of interests that fuel my creativity, resilience, and curiosity about the world. I'm especially drawn to technology and innovation, eager to explore how coding and data can solve real-world challenges.
