Preface To The Digital Book

Since I first tackled the creation of a book that includes all graduates of La Center High School in the summer of 1998, 24 years have somehow slipped by. Needless to say, a good deal has happened in La Center, the State of Washington, the United States, and the world during that time. One of the most significant changes for me is that I am now retired (and have been since 2019). I spent my entire career as an English teacher at La Center High School, and let me tell you, it was a good 40 years.

I published the first edition of La Center High School: Its History and Its Graduates in 2001, and I updated it and published a second edition in 2007. After 2007, sales slowed down a bit, and while I printed a small supplement including the Classes of 2008-2016, I did not print another version of the book.

Then I decided to turn the book into a display kiosk in the high school lobby where anyone passing through could stop, thumb through the display, and find their favorite graduates. I tell you, very few days went by that I did not spot someone (usually a student) flipping through the pages of the display (sometimes laughing at the look of students in a given period...I picture their kids doing the same one day as they look at their parents' photos).

Of course, I wondered what the fate of this project would be once I retired. Truth be told, I have not given the project much thought during the past few years, what with Covid and confinement and the joys of retirement. (I also dropped 130 pounds, thanks largely to bariatric surgery and that weight loss opened up a few new activities to my life, too.)

Just recently, though, I found myself becoming fired up about the project again. I hate to leave a job unfinished, and this book is, of course, a project that truly has no finish, as long as students continue to graduate from La Center High School. I pictured graduates from 2016-2022 returning to visit school, thumbing through the lobby display, and discovering that their classes are not (yet) in the book. I could imagine their disappointment. I felt bad.

Short story long, I have now brought the project completely up-to-date, and soon I will have the new pages added to the lobby display. The most time-consuming task involved retyping the index of all 4713 students that have graduated from LCHS from 1922 through 2022. Whew! And of those 4713 students, I have photos of all but 119 of them.

And then I got to thinking, the lobby display is nice and nary a day goes by, one of my former colleagues assures me, that someone does not pause and flip through the pages. However, not everyone that has graduated from La Center High School lives in La Center or even nearby. It would make my heart glad to see this document available to anyone that wants a copy. Printing an updated version, though, was just too expensive and onerous a task for me to face. And since I am not looking to become wealthy (ha, retired teacher!), I have decided instead to offer this digital document free to anyone that wants a copy. It is in a pdf format and should function on any computer out there.

(Apparently, it's working on your computer.)

If you would like to make a small donation to my PayPal account, I would be most appreciative, but it is not a requirement to download and enjoy the book. To access my PayPal account, you just need to know my email address, shbryan@comcast.net. Any donations would be welcome and would help to cover the costs of reprinting and laminating pages from the original display (I discovered a few errors that needed to be corrected) and printing and laminating the last six or so classes of graduates. That money would also help as I update the book each year.

If, as you peruse the book, you discover an error of some kind or you realize that you have a photo of one of the 119 students for whom I have no photo, please contact me at shbryan@comcast.net. Correcting a digital book is pretty darned easy, and I would love to have it be error-free, and I would certainly be happy to fill in any missing photos.

A word about the photos in the book. Originally, of course, I set out to create a book to print, and the only way that was going to be affordable was to print it in black and white. As a result, I scanned all of those class photos (from about 1938 through 1985) in black and white (and believe me, it was quite a job to maneuver those posters in the scanner so that I could get a good, clear shot of each student; that scanning alone took me three summers). I did the same with the classes for which I used yearbooks to gather photos and for all of those years when I was the Senior Class Advisor, collecting photos for the graduation slide show.

The first color photo of a student you will encounter in the book is of Amy Cordova, Class of 1996. Between 1996 and 2005, there are just a handful of color photos (not sure how that happened), but by 2007, the vast majority of student photos are in color because by then, most students were submitting digital photos to me, thank goodness! Collecting student photos now is so much easier because the yearbook advisor simply shares them with me. Of course, I still have to crop them to make them work well in the book. That is a bit time-consuming. Enough about photos.

Looking to the future, I have given thought to who will take on this project when I can no longer complete it. I was pondering that in a Facebook post recently, and realized (with this woman's help) that there is only one logical choice, Jennifer Cervený Miller, LCHS Class of 1990. Besides being a La Center resident and very much involved in LCHS as an athletic scorekeeper, Jennifer is responsible for refurbishing the surviving class photos that once adorned the halls of LCHS and then distributing them in various locations around La Center. This woman cares deeply about LCHS and its history, and I can think of no one that I would trust more to assume continuing this project in the future. At some point, I will be handing off all of these computer files to her. We'll keep you posted.

If you are enjoying your copy of the book (and if you're reading this, I know you have a copy), please share how to obtain a copy with anyone you feel might enjoy it, too. Let's get this booklet out to as many people as possible.

I have included this photo in the booklet simply because I love it. I have actually seen two of the original copies of it, which amazes me. In 1900, there was no La Center High School, just a La Center School. It would be 22 more years before a student graduated from La Center High School. According to information on the back of this photo, the students probably attended classes in a school located on the west side of what is now Aspen Avenue, across from the Clark Public Utilities reservoir. Students' names are listed on the back: 1) Fanny Powell, 2) Nina Schubel, 3) Ida Riegel, 4) John Lundeen, 5) Earl Woodland, 6) unknown, 7) Myrtle Cook, 8) Eva Davis, 9) Robert Hobert, 10) Ethel Headley, 11) Leila Gaither, 12) Thomas Headley, 13) Erma Schubel, 14) Jerry Riordan, 15) Leonard Woodland, 16) Ellen Lundeen, 17) Susie David, 18) unknown, 19) Pat Meaney, 20) Dolph Bennett, 21) Clifford Woodland, 22) Grace Conaway, 23) Wesley Powell (the teacher), 24) Alice Huntley, 25) Floyd Brooks, 26) Hattie Farley, 27) Frank Smith, 28) Letha Smith, 29) unknown, 30) Lettie Farley, 31) Nelson Smith, 32) Carrie Bartlett, 33) Carl Landerholm, 34) Carrie Coffman, 35) Ernest Cook, 36) Wallace Hall, 37) Mary Meaney, 38) Earl Conaway, 39) Alpha Coryea, 40) Lorena Davis, 41) Cecil Anderson, 42) Philip Meaney, 43) Rose Smith, 44) Emanuel Landerholm, 45) Arthur Smith, 46) Erritt Powell, 47) Ada Davis, 48) Stephen Meaney, 49) Earl Powell, 50) Peter Meaney, 51) Iva Smith, 52) unknown, 53) Arthur Powell, 54) Calvin Stewart. Any chance one of these students is an ancestor of yours?

Preface to the 2001 Edition

When I first walked the halls of La Center High School in the late summer of 1979, two things immediately struck me—the nasty shade of green on the walls and the class portraits which lined the main hallway. During those first four or five years, I traveled the main hallway any number of times each school day, and I never failed to notice those many portraits. Sometimes I would just glance as I rushed past, but other times I would stop and study the faces of those La Center High School graduates from years gone by. The longer I stayed at LCHS, the more familiar many of those last names became, partly because more than a few were the last names of my own students.

When remodeling on the building began in the spring of 1984, the portraits came down and were stowed away, I hoped for safe keeping. Eventually, they reappeared on the walls of the library, but not for long. Then they simply disappeared. I don't know how it happened, but somewhere along the line, the portraits—all 48 of them—were tossed into a dumpster on campus. Fortunately, an alert parent spotted them in the dumpster and salvaged all that he could. In the process, several of the portraits were ruined. When the latest LCHS opened in the fall of 1993, the surviving portraits found their way into the storage room, where they remained until 1998, when I absconded with them to launch this project.

My impetus was not the portraits themselves but an LCHS alumnus from the Class of 1956, Bud Osborne. Bud had toured the new high school when it first opened, and he asked me what had become of all of those photos. I confessed that I didn't know but promised to look into the matter. Once I located the portraits, though, I couldn't seem to generate any enthusiasm for displaying them in the new building; after all, several portraits had been damaged, and no new ones had been created since 1985. That's when I decided to create this book and to include in it the names of everyone who had graduated from LCHS since that first class of two in 1922 through the present. With any luck, I would also include a photo of as many students as possible.

So in the summer of 1998, I began this project, completely unaware of how much time it would encompass and how many fascinating people I would meet along the way. Originally I thought my biggest challenge would simply be to locate photos of all these LCHS grads; however, it immediately became clear to me that the toughest chore of all would be to compile a list of LCHS grads. Nowhere is there a file which lists the names of the graduates from year to year.

Instead, I found myself pouring over all manner of school documents to determine just who these graduates are. This meant spending a good deal of time in what I call the “scary records room” of the district, located in the 1961 building. If you've ever sat in that tiny room piled to the ceiling with district paperwork for more than 10 minutes, you'll know why it's scary. My research also took me to the Fort Vancouver Library and introduced me to a number of LCHS grads.

To determine just who had (and had not) graduated from La Center High School, I used a variety of documents. In some cases, clear district records indicate who the graduates were each year. This is the case from 1922 through 1941 and from 1950 through 1962. I cross checked records from many other sources, including graduation programs, baccalaureate programs, diploma order lists, attendance records (which are pretty darned consistent and clear), and my own speeches from 1983 through 1992 (when I mentioned each graduate by name). When records were lacking, I used the class photos as a starting place along with Procedos, the high school yearbook. In the end, I had a list of approximately 150 students whose transcripts I checked to verify graduation.

Where records are unclear or simply missing, as they are in just a few cases, I have given the benefit of the doubt to the student and included him/her in the booklet.

Other dilemmas have cropped up along the way. For example, it appears that prior to the mid-1960s, GEDs (general education degrees) were awarded by the individual school districts, so I have included GED recipients in the book if records indicate the GED was issued by the La Center School District. In addition, regardless of a student's actual age or years in high school, I have placed him/her according to the year the diploma was awarded. Because of this, some of you may think classmates are out of place.

In addition, because there was no way to determine whether or not foreign exchange students actually received a diploma, I have included all of those who were considered part of the senior class. One other problem I encountered concerned students who died during their senior year of high school. After consulting with a few colleagues, I decided to include the names and photos (if available) of these students at the end of their class section. My biggest fear is that I may have left someone out who truly did earn a diploma, so I'll apologize now if that has happened. If someone out there can verify graduation by showing me a diploma, I would be more than happy to add him/her to later editions of this book.

Along the way, I have learned a number of interesting things. For example, during the 1925-26 school year, the district spent $127.98 per student. One year later, the superintendent was paid $1650.00 for the year. Back in the days when LCHS had an agriculture program, the district had an entire policy that dealt just with student use of the tractor (no driving after dark). I was very pleased to learn that the LCHS Class of 1956 produced graduates of the University of Washington, Stanford, and Harvard. Perhaps my favorite tidbit, though, appeared in a 1930s record book in which a teacher had written, "_____ has been granted a D in typing on condition that he never take typing again."

If you have any information to enhance this book (missing grads, mottos, graduation dates, valedictorians/salutatorians, or photos), please get in touch with me at school (263-1700).

Preface to the 2007 Edition:

Time marches on. Since I published the first edition of La Center High School: Its History and Its Graduates, the fourth LCHS has been expanded and remodeled, I've discovered a few more bits of missing information about the graduating classes, I've sold 300 copies of this book, and another 573 students have graduated from La Center High School. By the way, that makes a total of 3099 LCHS grads, 1922-2007.

When I first began work on this book 10 summers ago, I was using technology that, by today's standards, moved with all the speed of a glacier. With the profits from the first 300 books, I've purchased a MacBook, and believe me, it has made the job of updating this book something of a breeze. I've also upgraded from PageMaker to InDesign, and although I've endured a bit of frustration learning this new program, it has been worth a few pulled hairs.

Once again, if you detect any errors in the book or you have a piece of missing information, give me a call at school (360-263-1700) or send me an email (sbryan@lcsd.k12.wa.us). And don't forget that we invite the 50-year class to graduation every year, so if your year is approaching and you know how to track down your classmates, call me.

Original LC School Serves Students from 1908-1938

According to Reaping the Past: La Center, Washington by Tracy Reilly, the first La Center High School (actually, La Center School) was built in 1908 and sat at the intersection of Pacific Highway and what is now Sixth Street, the current location of the new parking lot for The Last Frontier and The New Phoenix.

During the tenure of this building, the La Center School District grew and took shape as it consolidated with other school districts in the area. In 1920, Diamond Hill School District #32, Oakdale School District #50, and Jenny Creek School District #7 all merged with the La Center School District. Then in 1932, Pine Grove School District also voted to consolidate with La Center.

School records indicate that although grades 9, 10, and 11 were eventually taught at this first La Center school, students could not graduate from La Center; however, all of that changed in 1922 when Alvin Olstedt and Hazel Cook completed their senior year at La Center and became the first two graduates

At the start of the 1936-37 school year, the district purchased these four two and one-half ton GMC school busses, which featured Superior all steel bodies, shatterproof glass throughout, genuine leather upholstery, sanitary rubber floor coverings, emergency rear doors, and forced ventilation. Below is a view of the original school from Pacific Highway. The school may appear large in this photo, but 1938 graduate Adele Andring Johnston referred to it as "that little crackerbox."

The photo below was part of a 1919 calendar compliments of Kane Bros., General Merchandise in La Center. If you look closely, you can see that the street running in front of the school is a dirt road, and the sidewalk is actually a boardwalk. According to school attendance records, 20 of the students pictured here were high school students, and their teachers were Carl Landerholm and Winnifred Hopkins. By 1938, the boardwalk was gone, a retaining wall had been added, and there was a set of steps leading up to the school. By the 1980s, the only trace of this school was the steps, which were rediscovered beneath layers of vegetation. Sadly, even those steps are gone today.

of La Center High School. From 1922 through 1938, 188 students graduated from La Center High School. In fact, the Class of 1938 was the largest class to graduate from that original school; 25 members made up that class.

By 1938, though, the building at Pacific Highway and Sixth Street was too small to house La Center's growing student population, and plans were made to build a new school. In 1938 or 1939, the original La Center School was demolished, not because it had been condemned but because it needed to be destroyed so that the district could receive some federal aide for the new school.

Superintendents serving the La Center School District during this time included Carl Landerholm (1919-1930), Carlyle A. Cunningham (1930-33), and E. R. Rutherford (1933-41).

Graduation:
May 19, 1922

President: Warren G. Harding

Significant Events:

- The first female U.S. senator, Mrs. W. H. Felton of Georgia, is appointed.
- The first radio commercial is broadcast over WEAJ in New York City.
- T. S. Eliot's classic poem "The Wasteland" is published.
- The Lincoln Memorial is dedicated in Washington, D.C.
- King Tut's tomb is found.
- The Reader's Digest is published.
- Fats Waller makes his first record

New Products:

- Portable radio
- Car radio

Popular Film:

- Robin Hood w/ Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.

Popular Song: April Showers - Al Jolson

The Class of 1923

Elmer Beckman,
Valedictorian

Guilford Leverett,
Salutatorian

Graduation:
May 25, 1923

Members of the LCHS Class of 1923 included Elmer Beckman, Guilford Leverett, and Alfred Soehl. Once again, we know this photo pictures the entire school in 1923. The three graduates are probably in the back row. Alfred "Butch" Soehl used to like to joke that he graduated third in his class.

New La Center School Opens in 1938

Second LC Building Named for Mary Gabrielsen, 36-year LC Educator

By the end of the 1936-37 school year, the 26 acres on which a new La Center School would stand had been purchased and improved, bonds had passed, and the specifications and plans for this new school were drawn and ready. A 1938 article in The Columbian indicates this second La Center School cost approximately $80,000 to construct.

According to the 1938-39 Procedo, the new La Center School was completed on September 1, 1938.

For the next 22 years, this building housed grades K-12 of the La Center School District. One notable change during that time was the construction of a multi-purpose building in 1952. This new building, which was designed by Freeman, Hayslip, and Tuft, Architects and sat behind the main building, cost $23,674.26 to construct and included a multi-purpose room, a kitchen, a storage area, and two bathrooms.

In late 1959, the gymnasium which once jutted off of the west end

These two photos of the new La Center School appeared in the 1939 and 1940 LCHS yearbooks. In 1979, the Mary Gabrielsen Building, which no longer housed high school students, underwent an extensive modernization which cost $504,166.97. The Woodbilt Company of Vancouver completed the work. For 36 years, Mary Gabrielsen inspired the students of La Center to do their best.

of the school and four classrooms burned, forcing the LCHS Class of 1960 to graduate at Clark College. Although the Class of 1961 began its senior year in the 1938 building, they would be the last senior class to do so; by late spring, students in grades 9-12 had moved into the new high school which sat right next to the elementary school, thus ending the high school history of the second La Center School.

At the far right of the top photo from 1946, you can clearly see the gymnasium, which burned in 1960. Today, a new wing of classrooms and a playground occupy this space, part of a total remodel of the Mary Gabrielsen Building that was completed in 2005. Aside from a parking area, by 1953, the Mary Gabrielsen Building had changed little since 1938. Behind the Mary Gabrielsen Building, this multi-purpose edifice was built by Larry O. Collins, Contractor. Construction began on July 23, 1952 and was completed on December 17, 1952. The building was demolished as part of the 2005 remodel of the Mary Gabrielsen Building.

From 1938 through 1960, 474 students graduated from this second La Center High School. Principals of this building included Robert Briggs (1950-52), Eugene French (1952-59), and Leslie Metzger (1959-61). E. Rutherford (1933-41), John Hower (1941-42), J. Wright Baylor (1942-43), Paul E. Schiller (1943-49), and John L. Gary (1949-62) all served as superintendent of the La Center School district during the time that this second building housed LCHS students. School records indicate that prior to 1950, the superintendent performed the duties of both the superintendent and the principal.

The Mary Gabrielsen Building, as the second La Center School came to be known, may not have housed high school students for 46 years now, but it is still very much a part of the La Center School District and continues to serve as the main elementary school building. In 1979, the building was modernized to the tune of $504,166.97. Donald E. Eby and Associates were the architects of this update while the Woodbilt Company of Vancouver completed the construction work. A second remodel was completed in 2005, linking the Mary Gabrielsen Building to what now serves as the middle school (and was the third LCHS until 1993).

Exactly when the 1938 building was renamed Mary Gabrielsen Elementary School is not completely clear. Although the minutes of the school board meetings from June of 1965 through July of 1966 are missing, other school records indicate that the name change had occurred by the end of the 1966 school year. From 1966 until 1976, La Center's elementary school was known as Mary Gabrielsen Elementary School. Again, school records are not clear, but when the round building was constructed in 1976 to help alleviate overcrowding, it appears that the school's name again became La Center Elementary School, but the 1938 building continues to be known as the Mary Gabrielsen Building.

One could hardly tell the story of La Center High School without writing a bit about Mary Gabrielsen herself. When I first came to LCHS in the fall of 1979, I learned that the elementary school was called The Mary Gabrielsen Building and that Mary Gabrielsen had been a teacher in the district for a number of years, but that's about all I knew for a long time.

Until I began this project. Perhaps the most rewarding part of my research has been learning about Mary herself. It probably goes without saying that she must have been quite a woman and a teacher to have a school named after her. Indeed, that was certainly what I discovered.

Born January 25, 1903 in Woodland, Mary Snyder Gabrielsen was a lifelong resident of La Center. Mary graduated from Western Washington College of Education in Bellingham.

She began her teaching career with the La Center School District in 1929 with a class of 34 third and fourth graders. During that 1929-30 school year, Mary earned $990. For the next 36 years, Mary instructed students of the district. For most of her 36 years, Mary taught a 3/4 combination or strictly third grade, but her teaching assignments also included 2/3 splits, 4/5 splits, 5/6 splits, and apparently a single year of teaching eighth grade. Her class sizes varied as much as her teaching assignments. In fact, I was able to locate 34 of Mary's 36 attendance books. In seven of her years, Mary had class sizes in the 20s, her smallest class consisting of 20 students in 1954. However, such limited numbers were rare for Mary. Sixteen times she had classes in the 30s, ten times she had classes in the 40s, and remarkably she had a class of 52 students in 1933.

According to a newspaper article from 1961, Mary also served for one year as the elementary school principal, the only job she did not like.

In 1963, Mary received the Valley Forge Classroom Teachers' Medal, an award given to just seven teachers in the state by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge. She received this medal for her outstanding work to create a better understanding of the American way of life and for teaching responsible citizenship.

Looking through Mary's class rosters is almost like glancing at a La Center phone book these days. One of Mary's former students is Bill Barnhart (LCHS Class of 1945), who wrote of Mary, "I most vividly remember being in her class and room when she changed her name. The class bought her a brass hanging flower vase suspended by small chains." Bill continued, "I recall her stride or walk as if she was in front of me today."

Needless to say, Mary influenced a great many students during her 36 years with the La Center School District, but perhaps none more than Thelma Beasley Wilson (LCHS Class of 1940). "Mary Snyder Gabrielsen has been an inspiration to me since I was a child attending 1st and 2nd grades in 1929 and 1930 at the original La Center school building. . . Mary was a great lady as well as a great teacher. She had good discipline and every student loved her."

"I can remember her teaching cursive handwriting. She had beautiful handwriting - her voice ringing out 'push-pull' and 'around and around' strokes with pens we dipped in ink wells in those days."

Thelma continued, "One of the great moments in the school day was when Mary would read to us. She read every Bobsey Twin book ever published to us besides many other stories as well but the twin books are the ones that I remember."

Besides Mary's qualities as a teacher, Thelma was also impressed by her kindness. Not only did Mary and her husband Herman raise their niece after her mother died, but they also took in her children when she became ill for a time.

Thelma finished her tribute to Mary by writing, "Mary Gabrielsen, I salute you as one of the most giving, inspiring, and courageous women I have ever known."

Mary retired at the end of the 1965 school year. Sadly, she died of breast cancer just three months later, on September 14, four days after her husband Herman had died. Mary and Herman are buried in the Highland Cemetery. Thelma Beasley wrote, "I often place flowers on her grave as a remembrance of the good times and a lovely lady."

Third LCHS Opens in Spring 1961

With students in K-12 crammed into the fire damaged Mary Gabrielson Building (as it came to be known in 1966), construction on the first building to house only high school students began on October 17, 1960. The building was designed by Hayslip and Tuft Architects, and construction was completed by Woodbilt Company of Vancouver.

Construction was finished in the spring of 1961 and students made the move across the parking lot to the brand new La Center High School shortly before the end of the 1961 school year. In fact, the LCHS Class of 1961 was the first to graduate in the new gym.

Embedded into the tiles of this new school were the LC initials, and soon a new tradition was born: Do not step on the LC. Students who violated this tradition were treated to a variety of consequences, including being scooped up (usually by a couple of seniors) and having the seat of their pants used as a dust mop to remove any dirt from the LC.

By 1978, this building had also become somewhat overcrowded, prompting the building of a new wing on the north end of the high school (this work was done at the same time the Mary Gabrielson Building was being remodeled). Completed in 1979, this new wing featured a library, a science lab, a business room, one normal-sized classroom, and a much smaller classroom with a darkroom attached.

Total cost of the addition was $349,217.23. Once again, Woodbilt Company completed construction, while Donald E. Eby and Associates designed the new wing.

After 23 years of use, the 1961

1974

A pristine La Center High School awaits the arrival of high school students in 1961. The victory bell was donated to the school by the classes from the early 1960s.

building was in need of a total remodel, and this work began in 1984. The original portion of the building (excluding the fairly new north wing) was completely gutted and modernized to the tune of $1,322,119.16. Once again, Eby, Lien, and Associates, Inc. of Vancouver did the design work while Larry O. Collins supervised construction.

Remodeling work actually began at the end of the 1984 school year, which led to some creative classroom sharing for the last part of school. The remainder of the work was completed during the summer. While there were still a few finishing touches needing to be done (like stalls in the bathrooms) when school opened for the 1984-85 year, the building looked good, even with all of that orange.

As La Center's population began to grow steadily in the early 1990s, portable classrooms started to spring up around the LCHS campus, and by 1992, middle school students were sharing the building with high school students.

Finally, on the day after school ended in 1993, high school staff made the move to the fourth La Center High School, located just up the street on Highland Road, ending the 32-year history of the third La Center High School.

In 32 years, 1264 students graduated from the third LCHS. Principals during this time included Louis J. Powers (1961-63), Donald G. Tarver (1963-66), William Roy (1966-67), Les Greear (1967-72), Clay

Fox (1972-77), Roger Morris (1977-81), C. Lynn Olson (1981-83), Mark Kubiacyk (1983-88), and Warren Hopkins (1988-95).

Nine people served as superintendent of the La Center School District during this time. They were John L. Gary (1949-62), Claude O. Case (1962-67), Thomas E. Marsden (1967-70), Elmer Bisset (1970-71), Dr. Blayne Perleth (1971-76), George Kontos (1976-84), Jan Fudala (1984-86), John Thomas (1986-90), and
