WHAT IS AND HOW TO MUN

Imagine stepping into a room buzzing with excitement, where students sit behind nameplates labeled "France," "India," "Brazil," or "Narendra Modi." Each person present in that room gets to represent a country or a leader, tasked with addressing a challenge—like climate change or fair elections. This is Model United Nations (MUN), a simulation of the United Nations where participants, called delegates, learn the art of diplomacy by participating in a simulation of international and national discussions.

- Representing a Portfolio: Each delegate represents a country or leader, defending its policies on allotted topics like climate change or world security.
- Committees and Agendas: Delegates are placed in committees (e.g., Security Council or Lok Sabha) with specific topics to address.
- Debates and Resolutions: Through speeches, debates, and teamwork, delegates propose and negotiate solutions and score marks.

ARWACHIN INTERNATIONAL SCHOOL

Founded in 2003 with the motto "Education with Vision," Arwachin International School has always embraced opportunities that nurture leadership, intellect, and global awareness among its students. This year, the school is proud to announce a landmark initiative: its first-ever Inter House Model United Nations Conference – AISMUN'25 (Arwachin International School Model United Nations 2025), held in collaboration with TheKlavyaS, a leading name in youth diplomacy training.

AISMUN'25 promises to be a transformative experience where students from all four houses will step into the shoes of global diplomats, debate pressing international issues, and seek constructive solutions through negotiation and dialogue. Designed to cultivate critical thinking, public speaking, and diplomacy skills, the conference will simulate real UN committees and foster an atmosphere of intellectual rigor and teamwork.

With TheKlavyaS lending their expertise in MUN training and execution, AISMUN'25 is set to be a high-impact, immersive platform that aligns perfectly with Arwachin's mission of providing Education with Vision. The event represents more than just an inter-house competition—it is a step towards empowering future leaders to think globally and act responsibly.

The stage is set, the gavels are ready, and the world awaits their voices.

AISMUN'25 – where vision meets action.
