The Historic New England Color Guide

Period Palettes from Colonial to Mid-Century with Benjamin Moore closest matches

This reference document presents the Historic Colors of America collection, developed by California Paints in partnership with Historic New England.

The palette spans eleven architectural periods, from Colonial through International Style, grounded in pigment analysis of historic New England properties dating from the mid 1600 to the 1960s.

Colors are organized by architectural period and use: Exterior Siding / Body and Trim, Sash & Doors. Some colors are accent-only or restricted to specific applications as noted within each section.

This document is intended for homeowners, contractors and design professionals working on historically sensitive residential projects in New England.

Disclaimer: Color Accuracy & Liability

The color equivalents provided in this guide are the result of weighted RGB color-distance matching.

While these represent the closest mathematical approximations within the Benjamin Moore catalog, they are not exact matches.

Paint is a chemical product. Variables such as the specific paint line (e.g., Aura vs. Regal Select), sheen, application method, substrate material, and local lighting conditions will significantly alter the final appearance of any color.

This document is intended as a professional reference tool only. The author assumes no liability for the final color results, application costs, or any dissatisfaction arising from the use of these approximations. You are strictly advised to purchase a sample and perform a test patch on-site in both natural and artificial light before ordering large quantities of paint. Final verification is the sole responsibility of the user and the contractor.
