Rodent Bait Stations

- All stations are tamper-resistant and lockable. For maximum durability and safety, commercial-grade stations are recommended, especially in high-traffic areas.
- A one-time fee per station covers the station and professional installation. Whenever possible, stations will be secured to the ground or structure.
- Stations become the property of the client upon installation and are serviced by Spartan Pest Control for the duration of service.
- Stations that fail due to a manufacturer defect will be replaced at no charge. Stations that are lost, stolen, damaged, moved, or broken for reasons other than product failure will require payment of the standard one-time station fee for replacement.
- Bait stations are part of an integrated rodent control plan and may not fully eliminate activity without proper structural sealing and sanitation.

Some station types may require special ordering, which can result in a short installation delay. Station fees are due at the time of enrollment to secure equipment and installation.
