

Those who love the truth will at least LISTEN to the Biblical proofs against the one man one woman only lie. However, many who embrace this lie and who fear the truth contrary to it, typically follow a very familiar pattern of rejection. It begins with name calling; labeling the opponent with some unsavory title, then personal character assassination follows, and finally prejudicially removing the truth sayers to the depths of hell.

Such attacks often include the accusation that uncontrolled lust is a powerful reason behind the belief in polygyny.

This accusation is used as a DIVERSION to divert attention away from the fact that the monogamy-only doctrine has no legitimate biblical basis. In one way, those who engage in ad hominem attacks have a clearer understanding of the status of the biblical material than those who attempt to use Scripture. Those using ad hominem attacks understand the inadequacy of the “biblical” arguments for the monogamy-only position, so they default to personal attacks.

Those using “biblical” arguments are typically either ignorant of the biblical content or use fallacious “logic,” as we have demonstrated over and over again. One such example of fallacious logic is using the Universal Generalization Fallacy of trying to universalize the individual example of Adam’s monogamy into a law or mandate for all men. This is entirely irrational, but they are mesmerized by the psychological process of IDEALIZATION. This proposition becomes a sacred cow and unquestionable premise of all thought on the subject. It is the classic tautology, the circular argument. Its truth is ASSUMED at every step of the argument, and every argument is judged as true if it is in accord with the assumption and false if it is contradictory. The assumption itself is NEVER questioned or analyzed.
