NOTES FROM THE EDITOR:

Each morning I start my day by going to Wikipedia to the Biography portal and look at the “additional anniversaries” area to learn about featured event on that date from the earliest recorded times and well as that day’s birthdays. Through this search I was led to the UNESCO web site and from there I followed the links to:

<https://whc.unesco.org/en/list/> which provides an interactive world map showing over 1100 locations of World Heritage sites that are searchable by country and by type.

Each location has some information as well as photos and many also have videos. This is an excellent way to learn about and “travel to” during these still challenging times to do physical travel. You can even see many locations that are featured on stamps that you then may wish to collect. On the front page of the newsletter is a very informative United Nations Australia World Heritage booklet.

CHANGES:

Due to a significant health issue that I experienced after the October Antique Auction Genie Eaker & I were forced to cancel the Nov. 27 “Nostalgia Show” and to suspend all future monthly Antique Auctions. Since these auctions were providing the funding for the rental of our space for the TSC meetings we needed to develop a new plan to meet this expense. A meeting of the TSC officers was held on Nov. 3 with the following results: after receiving members annual dues and auction sales we have a shortfall of about $500.00 from the annual rental costs at the FOP lodge which can be met by charging a $10.00 dealer fee per meeting for the ten meetings per year that are available after the two meetings that are dedicated for the TSC auctions.

Dealers who elect to participate will have a full table to sell their items at our monthly bourse times which is a minimum of two hours. We need five Dealers to participate in order to make this concept work. At the meeting Genie Eaker, Richard King, Jerry McNew, and I committed to be classified as Dealers and pay this monthly fee leaving us just one Dealer short to make this concept a success. This plan will be implemented starting with the Jan. 2022 meeting since Genie and I have committed to pay for the Nov. & Dec. meeting fees. This plan which was adopted by the club officers will allow us to continue to use this excellent facility and not have to request an increase in member dues.

PROPOSED MEETING PRESENTATIONS:

At the December meeting you will receive a ballot to select four of the following topics that you would like to see as presentations during the next six months:
