

At the end of April, I attended 92-year-old Brother ST's funeral in North London. Though initially unsure about going, it became an unexpected blessing. His son, daughter-in-law, & grandson openly expressed their love, gratitude, apologies, & farewells, something rarely seen in Chinese culture. Their tears brought healing to many attendees, & I prayed that hardened hearts would be changed. On the return, Pastor W introduced Sister X whom I visited in the afternoon after returning from South London. Her stoma was draining a large amount of pale green fluid, yet she still hoped for recovery from cancer. I translated her clinical letters honestly that her colon cancer had spread, was terminal. She was deeply disappointed & longed either to return to China or for her family to visit. 2 weeks later, her abdominal pain worsened & scans confirmed her cancer further spread, making long-distance travel unsafe. Yet the next day she regained strength, insisting on risking the flight home. Doctors confirming her symptoms had eased quickly arranged discharge & medical records. She flew home that evening, arriving safely the next morning. I translated & coordinated with doctors by email. Seeing a dying patient's final wish fulfilled felt almost unreal.

The Kew Gardens Open Week offers free tickets. After many failed online attempts on the Underground, I prayed & made one final try, successfully securing 20 free tickets for the final day. Please pray that cancer patients will not only enjoy the flowers and plants, but also appreciate God's grace.

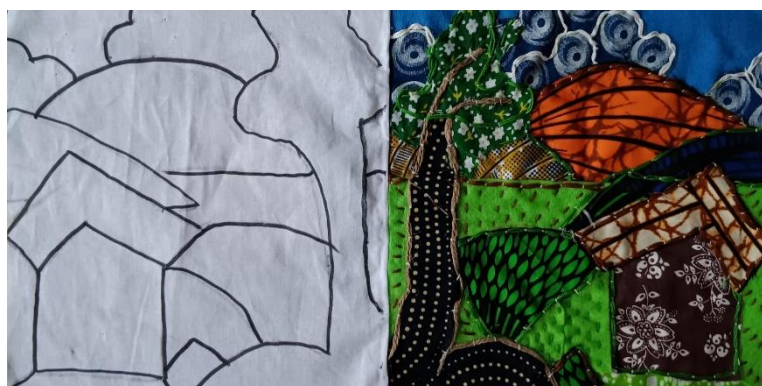

To avoid the London Underground strike, 14 members of the Joy Group visited the Wesley brothers' home (Lt) a day earlier. Unexpectedly, the Tube line was suspended, forcing many detours, while strong wind & rain disrupted mobile navigation. Despite many difficulties, God's grace was sufficient & everyone remained safe.

Sister SL, widowed for 3 years, brought cigarettes & alcohol to her husband's grave. Later I responded, "Seeing you take a puff of your cigarette & then offering it to your deceased husband, my heart aches. Smoking & drinking contributed to his metastases. Using smoking to remember him is the devil's trick. Please quit smoking for the sake of your two children." Since then, she stopped replying to my messages. Before her husband passed away, they were baptised together in hospital. Although she has attends worship, she says, "My heart was never been touched." Please pray that she will experience Jesus personally.

One Wed devotion, the Holy Spirit urged me to visit 90-year-old Mr N, who may have bladder cancer. Before leaving, my eldest son emailed to say he had lost his phone the night before. When I called it, a man named Steven answered briefly before the line cut off. I managed to hear Steven's number & contacted him. We arranged to meet at a Tube station, where he returned the phone. We were deeply grateful, especially since the SIM card had already been disabled. Later, I visited Mr N & changed his urine bag. I contacted 2 hospitals regarding his appointments, but no one answered. Before leaving, his 3 family members & I joined hands in prayer. Afterwards, one hospital sent a text message, allowing me to cancel a cataract appointment, & I successfully arranged a urology appointment with the other. I testified to Auntie L, a new believer: "God heard our hand-in-hand prayer." That evening, our family gave heartfelt thanks for God's amazing provision.

Please walk alongside cancer patients in your prayers:

1. Sister Nice, 40, from a RC background has terminal breast cancer. After 2 visits, she confessed to accept Jesus as her Saviour & Lord. She said, "When I can move freely, I don't feel like a sinner." She lives alone, needs a carer.
2. Mr Like mentioned last month, is spiritually lukewarm. The Holy Spirit reminded me: "People plant the seed, but God makes it grow."
3. Sister Lotus, widowed by cancer, was diagnosed in China with a rectal tumour & lung nodule. Coming back to the UK awaiting treatment, she feels very anxious.
4. Mr Grace, whose mom was mentioned in Feb, whose rare lung cancer has spread to the brain, with severe pleural effusion. Please pray for his repentance, having faith in Jesus.
5. Mr On, mentioned in Jan, has completed R/T & chemo for rectal cancer, awaits surgery with a temporary stoma. He recently prayed to accept Jesus as Saviour & Lord. Please pray for healing physically & spiritually.
6. Cancer friends do not believe in Jesus: Mr Tree (adrenal gland), Mrs Wash (lung and breast), Mrs Great (lung), Ms Corner (stomach), Ms Wheat (blood), Mrs Like (cervical cancer, her daughter F has depression for 20 years), Mr Full (prostate), Mr Circle (a hernia), Ms Silver (bowel cancer), Ms Gamble (lymphoma & breast), Ms Farmer (thyroid), Ms Sweet (breast), J's mum (lung)

In May, art therapy using fibres: "Life Is Full of Choices." Some aspects of life — such as race, gender, family name, or height — cannot be chosen (Lt). But we can choose how to live, what materials to use, and what colours to add to life (Rt).

I was invited to join the Macmillan MDT conference panel as a patient representative.
