

The Mall World Quantum Experiment

A Dream Traveler's Guide to the Night of Intention & Meeting

The Theory – Why We're Doing This (Deep Dive)

For centuries, mystics and modern thinkers alike have hinted at shared dream spaces. Dimensions where consciousness can gather beyond the body. Ancient texts called them astral realms. Neville Goddard called them the dimensionally larger world. The CIA's Gateway documents spoke of resonant energy patterns. Today, many GATE kids and Gen Xers report recurring dreams of Mall World, Water World, and Hotel World — uncanny landscapes that appear to be collective constructs, not private imagination.

What if these are not random dreams, but quantum meeting grounds — places where scattered souls are anchoring reality together? This experiment seeks to answer that.

- Mall World seems to be the entry hub — a vast psychic marketplace of memory and imagination.
- Water World appears to be the fluid, emotional layer beneath — accessible through mirrors and reflection.
- Hotel World functions as the threshold — a liminal space of passage, elevators, and infinite rooms.

By moving as a group with precise intention and exact ritual, we create a cymatic frequency — a vibrational signal strong enough to lock us into the same dream space at the same time. If successful, this will be the first mass-scale intentional dream meeting in recorded human history.

Section 1: The Night of Intention (August 23rd)

The night of intention is the foundation. It is not just prelude — it is ignition. On this night, each of us becomes both architect and traveler, planting the seed of the journey to come. Intention is the tuning fork of the soul; if we do not strike it clearly, the sound will not resonate across dimensions.

On August 23rd, under the Black Moon, we align together in stillness. Each participant should prepare a quiet space, free from distractions, and set aside at least 30 minutes before sleep. Write your intention by hand: "I will meet with others in Mall World on August 30th. We will gather by the fountain and move together into Water World, and then into Hotel World."

Read this aloud three times. Then close your eyes and visualize yourself stepping onto a bright blue escalator, feeling the hum of its energy carrying you upward. This image is our collective door.

Neville Goddard taught: "Assume the feeling of the wish fulfilled." On this night, assume you have already succeeded. See yourself shaking hands at the fountain. See others smiling, repeating the pass phrase: "Are you part of the experiment?" Feel it so strongly that the memory is already written in your cells.

This is the seed night. The night we become it before we experience it.

Section 2: The Purpose

Why do this? Why attempt to bridge Mall World, Water World, and Hotel World together, across hundreds of dreamers, strangers, and yet kin?

Because if we succeed, it will be the first mass-scale intentional meeting in a shared dream space in human history. We will make TikTok history — but more importantly, we will leave an imprint in the collective unconscious that cannot be erased.

Mall World is more than a dreamscape; it is a quantum commons, a space where GATE kids and Gen Xers have been reporting for years, unknowingly converging. By meeting with intention, we turn accidents into alignment.

Think of it like tuning into the same radio station. If one of us hums, it is noise. If hundreds of us hum in tune, it becomes resonance. Goddard taught that imagination is not fantasy, but creation itself. When many imagine one outcome, it collapses into reality.

Our purpose: to prove that dream is not private, but shared. That we can meet in soul space. That imagination is the builder of worlds — and that we can architect them together.

Section 3: The Path We Take

The journey has already been whispered into our lives through TikTok. The path begins the same for all:

- Step onto the bright blue escalator. This is the entry frequency, the cymatic signature we all will use.
- The escalator will carry you into Mall World. Move with calm.
- Head toward the central fountain. This is our meeting place, the anchor of our gathering.

Once there, alter the landscape in a small, noticeable way — move a chair, place a flower, paint the air with light. This anchors your presence. Then look for others.

Ask them softly: “Are you part of the experiment?”
If they say yes, you have found kin.

Section 4: Pass Phrase & Protocol

The pass phrase is vital. It ensures alignment.

- When you see another dreamer, greet them.
- Ask: "Are you part of the experiment?"
- If they answer yes, form a group and stay near the fountain until others gather.

Together, we will enter the dressing rooms of Mall World. Inside, there are mirrors — these are gateways. Step through them with confidence.

Section 5: Techniques & Step-by-Step Ritual

This is the exact ritual everyone must follow. Doing it precisely creates the same cymatic resonance, like striking the same note.

Before Sleep (both nights):

1. Prepare Your Space: Quiet, clean, dim light. Place a glass of water by your bed.
2. Breathing: 9 deep breaths — in through nose, out through mouth.
3. Spoken Intention: "Tonight I enter Mall World through the blue escalator. I will meet by the fountain. I will find others."
4. Visualization: See the escalator glowing bright blue, humming. Step onto it. Feel it moving upward.
5. Assumption (Goddard): Imagine yourself already shaking hands with others. Assume success.

During the Dream (Night of Meeting):

1. Go to bed at a time that will allow you 5 hours of sleep before waking up around 3 am. (set an alarm)
 2. Stay awake for 25-30 minutes and go back to bed. Begin lucid dream state, attempt to be in the lucid state at 3:33 am.
 3. Step onto the blue escalator.
 4. Go to the fountain. Wait. Notice details.
 5. Alter the environment (drop a coin, move an object).
 6. Look for others. Ask: "Are you part of the experiment?"
 7. Gather. Enter the dressing rooms. Find mirrors.
 8. Step through — into Water World.
 9. From Water World, search the locker rooms, elevators, or glass bridge to access Hotel World.
 10. Explore, record, remember.

Section 6: The Night of Meeting (August 30th)

On this night, everything comes together. The seed planted on the 23rd blossoms into dream. Follow the ritual precisely. Write everything down upon waking. Even fragments matter — they may align with others' experiences.

Section 7: Journaling the Experience

Each participant should have a journal page with these prompts:

- Did you see the blue escalator?
 - What details did you notice in Mall World?
 - Did you alter the environment?
 - Did you meet anyone? What was said?
 - Did the pass phrase occur?
 - Did you reach Water World or Hotel World?
 - What emotions did you feel?

Section 8: Why This Matters

If even a handful of us report the same details — escalators, fountains, dressing rooms, mirrors, bridges — we will have cracked open the greatest secret of the dream state: that it is shared, navigable, and architected by intention.

This is more than an experiment. It is a step into the next epoch of human consciousness.

✨ May we succeed. May we meet by the fountain. May we change history together.
