

The waitress Karen appears and gives Sterling his drink.
John hands Karen his menu.

KAREN

So what do you guys want to eat?

John is still looking at his menu.

Waitress looks at Sterling:

KAREN (CONT'D)

What about you? Because if I you want a hamburger, I could go out,
chase down a cow, kill it, grill
it, & put in on your plate before he decides what to order.

As Karen moves her hand toward John's near-empty cup, Sterling intercepts her with his hand holding a hundred dollar bill.

KAREN

I don't know how they do it where you're from in Bedrock City, but here, you pay for the meal after you've eaten.

STERLING

I know. Would you be interested in doing me a favor?

KAREN

Depends on what the favor is.

Sterling writes down a name and address.

STERLING

I want you to take this cup of water, water and all, and carefully deliver it to this address, and give it to this man. He's expecting the delivery.

KAREN

I don't know. Sounds illegal.

Sterling shows her another hundred dollar bill.

Karen scoffs.

KAREN (CONT'D)

Two weeks ago, I spent that same amount 30 minutes after getting to the mall.

STERLING

On a waitress salary?

KAREN

No, I had access to my trust fund back then.

STERLING

Trust fund?

KAREN

Yeah, my parents cut me off last week. They said before I can get back access to MY money, I had to work a 'real' job for one whole year; so I can understand what the working man and customers go through and learn empathy. Can you believe that? EMPATHY!?? I already have so much empathy it's coming out of my ass!

STERLING

That explains a lot. In that case,....

Sterling pulls out some cash and fans it out: 18 more hundred dollar bills!

Karen swoops up the money:

KAREN

And, suddenly I don't care if it's illegal. Consider it done.