About iPartner India

Established in 2006, iPartner India is a charity with its core values embedded in social justice and equity. Our work with marginalised and vulnerable communities has placed women and young girls at the centre and aimed at providing them with agency and the education and skills to live lives of dignity.

Our interventions are primarily in the areas of anti-child trafficking, education, vulnerable children, climate resilience, livelihoods, sports, and youth development.

Child Protection

Safeguarding vulnerable children from trafficking and exploitation through comprehensive protection programs.

Quality Education

Ensuring access to transformative education that breaks cycles of poverty and marginalization.

Community Empowerment

Building sustainable solutions through community engagement and systemic change initiatives.

Our Vision & Mission

Vision

A just and equitable India where vulnerable communities, without discrimination, have access to opportunities and the ability to seek sustained and effective solutions to overcome their marginalisation.

Mission

To build an enabling ecosystem for children and young adults of marginalised communities that leads to systemic, sustainable, and lifelong change by:

- Facilitating safe environments for them to grow and thrive
- Ensuring access to quality education and vocational skills
- Addressing the adverse impact of climate change

Rakshan: Breaking Cycles of Exploitation

Rakshan, an initiative of iPartner India, protects vulnerable children—particularly girls from the Nat and Kanjar communities—where intergenerational sex work remains a harsh reality.

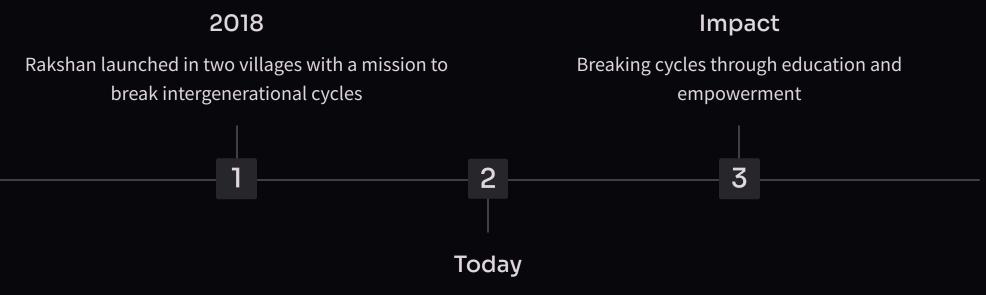

The Challenge

Just 80 kilometers from Jaipur, India's 'destination wedding' capital, minor girls are still coerced into sex work, often by their own families. Fathers and brothers, unable to secure alternative livelihoods, are forced into the role of pimps.

Aunts, mothers, and grandmothers—many of them former or current sex workers—groom the next generation to solicit clients. This cycle of systemic exploitation has persisted for decades, leaving girls with no viable alternatives.

"Retired sex workers return to their villages with no savings or assets, often facing severe reproductive and sexual health challenges."

Working in 25 villages across four districts of Rajasthan

Educate Her, Empower Her (EHEH)

Our flagship campaign, Educate Her, Empower Her (EHEH), provides scholarships that keep girls in school and safe from being trafficked. To date, more than 900 scholarships have been awarded in Rajasthan and Madhya Pradesh—supporting both boarding and non-boarding education—giving girls an opportunity to write their own futures for the first time in generations.

Expanding impact across Rajasthan and Madhya Pradesh regions

Rakshan's holistic approach engages families, communities, and institutions to create a protective ecosystem that prioritises education. In several villages, we have celebrated the first-ever female graduates—a historic milestone.

Transforming Lives Through Education

Today, 25 girls are enrolled in premier boarding schools and universities. Others are charting professional pathways: training to be teachers, preparing for the Indian Administrative Service (IAS) and studying subjects hitherto unfathomable to them.

These young women are courageously rejecting the oppression endured by their mothers and grandmothers.

Premier Schools

Access to quality boarding schools and educational institutions

Teacher Training

Preparing to become educators and community leaders

Civil Services

Preparing for IAS and other competitive government positions

Breaking Cycles

Rejecting generational patterns of exploitation and oppression

Programme Highlights

Scholarships

Financial support that enables girls to remain in school and pursue higher education, addressing the critical school dropout points.

Career Guidance

Structured counselling and exposure to opportunities that help scholars identify ambitions and chart meaningful career paths.

Mentorship

Mentoring groups that build confidence, provide role models, and prepare girls for higher education and competitive careers.

Family & Community Engagement

Continuous dialogue with families and communities to challenge entrenched norms, reduce dropout rates, and build collective ownership of girls' education.

Why Your Support Matters

"At Educate Her | Empower Her, we believe that when a girl is educated, everything changes—not just for her, but for her family, her community, and generations to come."

We go beyond textbooks: nurturing confidence, leadership, and life skills that empower girls to take charge of their futures. Through a dynamic blend of classroom education, mentorship, and community engagement, we equip girls to rise above systemic barriers and create lasting change.

At present, we support girls' education in Rajasthan and Madhya Pradesh, but thousands more are waiting in the wings.
