Our Special

HO

Hotel

Hotelware refers to a category of kitchen and dining items, such as dishes, flatware, glassware, and cookware, specifically designed and manufactured for use in hotels, restaurants, and catering establishments. These items are typically durable, easy to clean, and often feature a uniform and stylish design to maintain a consistent look in commercial food service settings. Hotelware is essential for the day-to-day operations of hospitality businesses to serve and present food and beverages to their customers efficiently and aesthetically.

RE

Resturant

Restaurant ware, also known as restaurant china, refers to a specific type of ceramic or porcelain dinnerware and serving pieces that are designed for use in restaurants, diners, and other food service establishments. Restaurant ware is known for its durability and simple, utilitarian design.

CA

Catering

"Catering ware" typically refers to a range of disposable or semi-disposable items used in catering and food service operations. These items are designed to simplify the process of serving and presenting food at events, parties, or gatherings. Common examples of catering ware include:
