ABOUT ME

I work at the intersection of tech, policy, and impact – helping mission-driven orgs grow through clear messaging and smart strategy. I lead global communications at YPFP, Global Branch and support growth at OAISIS, Third Opinion, where we're building tools for responsible AI and ethical reporting.

Today, we honor the vital contributions of seafarers to global trade, maritime security, and climate science. Though often out of sight, their impact is immense – they are the backbone of the global economy.

At Young Professionals in Foreign Policy \(YPFP\) - Global, we emphasize the importance of maritime policy, labor rights, and ocean diplomacy – critical areas where emerging leaders can drive real change.

From the Arctic to the Indo-Pacific, the future of international cooperation will depend on how we navigate our oceans, both physically and diplomatically.

We join International Maritime Organization in recognizing the indispensable role of seafarers and reaffirm our commitment to a resilient and inclusive maritime future.

Protected reporting leads to real impact

Whistleblower systems are proven to work in other complex domains:

From 1987 to 2023, nearly 70% of civil funds recovered by the U.S. government (~$53 billion) came from whistleblower reports.
