KHAN FOR MAYOR: A NEW, OMNIPARTISAN WIN-WIN VISION FOR D.C.

Flipping the Script: No Local Taxes. A Fully Funded City. A Just Transition for Every Resident.

FOR OVER TWO CENTURIES, Washington, D.C. residents have borne an unjust burden: paying billions in federal taxes annually without a single voting voice on the floor of Congress. The political establishment has spent decades fighting the same stale, losing battle.

Nadeem Adam Khan is an engineer, not a career politician. Applying a systems-thinking approach to D.C.'s unique constitutional position, his blueprint ends D.C. taxation without representation. Khan's platform completely abolishes local tax burdens, transforming D.C. into the world's premier tax-free Global Investment and Innovation Hub. Thousands of companies, nonprofits, and international organizations anchoring here will instead pay a membership fees to fund Khan's Dream City agenda, which benefits Republicans, Democrats, Libertarians, and business owners alike, creating an unprecedented, historic win-win. By backing Khan's plan, the federal government keeps its tax structure in place while raking in tens of billions annually from unprecedented subsequent job creation and economic growth. This pan-political approach flips the traditionally antagonistic relationship between the District and Congress completely on its head—giving the federal government massive skin in the game to ensure Khan's plan—and D.C.—succeeds.

To launch this transformation, Khan will work with congressional allies to secure an initial funding bridge underwriting D.C.'s baseline budget during the transition. From there, he will collaborate with Congress to redirect a significant portion of the resulting federal tax revenue windfall back into the district to fund his Dream City platform.

- How the U.S. Treasury Wins: This isn't a handout; it's a high-yield investment. By completely eliminating local personal income, corporate, and property taxes—D.C. will attract a massive, unprecedented tidal wave of domestic and international corporations. While these businesses will pay zero local taxes, they will flood the U.S. Treasury with tens of billions of dollars in new federal corporate tax revenue that previously sat offshore or out of state. What is great for the District becomes an absolute cash cow for the federal government.
- How D.C. Residents Win: Local personal income, business, and property taxes are entirely abolished. After the initial 5-year federal bridge, high-volume transactional fees, asset management inside the new tax free DC global hub and federal revenue sharing will generate over $30 billion annually. This permanent surplus will fund a massive D.C. Sovereign Wealth Fund to bankroll 200,000 permanently affordable homes ($900 rent and mortgage caps for 1-bedrooms), 100,000 new jobs paying $30+/hour, universal free childcare, and 24/7 free buses and Metro—all with zero local taxes and zero spending cuts. Khan's plan unleashes job diversification: For too long, D.C.'s economy has been over-reliant on the government, federal contracting, and military sectors. By creating a global tax-free hub, Khan's plan will create new private-sector jobs in fashion, design, finance, tech, and arts, massively expanding D.C.'s appeal as a world-class center for cross-industry innovation.

A Unified Win-Win Blueprint for Every Side of the Aisle

- For Libertarians & Business Owners: The complete abolition of the local tax apparatus, the removal of government red tape, and an environment where businesses can afford to pay thriving wages because their local tax liabilities have dropped to zero. The societal feedback loop of this model is clear: when workers earn thriving wages, worker loyalty and retention skyrocket, the economy grows in a healthy manner, and street-level crime drops.
- For Republicans: True fiscal innovation that slashes municipal debt, drives massive private-sector growth, and puts billions back into the U.S. Treasury without imposing a single new tax on American citizens.
- For Liberals: An ironclad, fully funded social safety net that aggressively tackles the root causes of crime and eradicates health inequities—such as the 17-year life expectancy gap between affluent neighborhoods and Wards 7 and 8. By delivering housing stability, introducing nonprofit grocery stores, and permanently shielding vulnerable communities from displacement, this blueprint turns progressive ideals into reality.

No other candidate has proposed a solution of this magnitude. This isn't typical partisan politics—it's precision economic engineering that turns a historic injustice into a global engine of prosperity.

Bolstering the Home Rule Act & Civil Rights

The Khan administration will legally fortify the Home Rule Act, embedding non-negotiable housing and civil rights protections into the District's charter. Vulnerable communities will be legally shielded from displacement, gentrification, and the inflation risks driven by tax-shelter seekers.

Rebuilding Wards 7 and 8

A legally mandated fixed percentage of all corporate registration fees will bypass general funds and flow directly into dedicated community wealth initiatives:

- Direct Neighborhood Reinvestment: Funding local infrastructure, parks, and community centers across Ward 7 and Ward 8.
- At-Risk Youth Programs: Creating fully endowed, multi-year funding streams for mentorship, tech-education pipelines, trade apprenticeships, and mental health resources for District youth.
