Moral Mayhem Meets Minimalist Theatre in Chemical Imbalance: A Jekyll and Hyde Play

Michigan State University's Department of Theatre presents Chemical Imbalance: A Jekyll and Hyde Play by Lauren Wilson, a comical adaptation of the classic story of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. Chemical Imbalance: A Jekyll and Hyde Play treads dangerously through aristocracy and corruption and is a part of the Department of Theatre's Storefront series, which showcases creative minimalism. Director Brad Willcuts stated, "One of the Storefront's guiding principles is to create theatre on a shoestring—without designers, without spectacle...". Chemical Imbalance: A Jekyll and Hyde Play will focus on the actors and content of the play, rather than the design aspects of theatre. Performances are scheduled for Nov. 19 - 23, 2025 at Studio 60 in the Auditorium Building.
