

Dawn
Vincent celebrant

Personal, Meaningful Wedding Ceremonies

For couples who believe the ceremony matters most

www.dawnvincentcelebrant.co.uk

Hello!

Hi, I'm Dawn, a multi-talented Celebrant working across North Yorkshire, Teesside, Northumberland, and the North East, known for my quirky, imaginative ceremonies.

For some couples, the ceremony is just one part of the day. For others, it's the part that matters most. I work with couples who want their ceremony to feel meaningful, personal, and completely true to who they are, not something rushed, generic, or simply there to tick a box.

Every ceremony is written from scratch. No templates. No shortcuts. I work closely with you to shape a ceremony that reflects your relationship and your personalities. Whether that includes laughter, symbolic elements or something completely unexpected, it's all led by what feels right for you. Because this isn't about fitting into a format. It's about creating something that actually means something.

If that sounds perfect to you then I'd love to have a chat!

Dawn

Your Ceremony Package & Timeline

Included in my ceremony package:

- Face-to-face or video consultations to get to know each other
- Personal ceremony script
- Access to my poem & reading library
- Unlimited support in the lead-up
- Vow-writing help and access to my vow writing workbook
- Advice on structure, music, symbolism and photography moments
- Your one of a kind ceremony officiated by me
- Keepsake copy of your script, certificate and vow cards

Here's a simple breakdown and planning timeline:

Enquire & book	We meet to talk about you and your ceremony and see if we're a good fit. If you wish to go ahead, you complete and return my booking form and contract along with your deposit to secure your chosen date.
The Ceremony Planning & Design	We will chat about all the ceremony details together and you'll complete your couples quiz. I craft your ceremony. You review and tweak until you're happy.
Ongoing support	I offer ongoing support and am on hand for any questions or ideas you want help with. I offer one-to-one support with writing your vows along with vocal coaching to give you confidence to speak in public on the day.
Final preparations	We arrange a run-through of your ceremony to check timings, practice reading vows and settle any pre-wedding nerves.
Your Wedding Day	I arrive early, brief everyone and lead your ceremony smoothly while you simply breathe, enjoy and soak up every minute.
Aftercare	I mingle with your guests and hopefully grab a quick photograph with you before heading home with a big smile on my face!

What is the different between a Registrar and a Celebrant?

A celebrant offers freedom, choice, flexibility and personalisation.

A registrar handles the legal side of marriage, they work to a set script, operate within fixed time slots, and are limited to licensed venues.

A celebrant does something different. The focus is entirely on you, your story, your relationship, and what you want your ceremony to be. Every word is written from scratch, there's no script to follow, and no venue restrictions to work around.

Celebrant-led ceremonies aren't yet legally binding in the UK, but for most couples that's not an issue. A short register office appointment, just you, a registrar, and two witnesses, takes care of the legal bit, leaving your actual celebration completely free to be personal, meaningful, and exactly as it should be.

Why choose me as your Celebrant?

I take the time to really get to know you. Not just how you met, but who you are, what you value, what matters to you, what you want your ceremony to feel like.

From the very first conversation, couples often say they feel at ease, like they're being listened to, not led. That trust carries all the way through, so by the time the ceremony arrives, it doesn't feel like a performance.

INSIDER TIPS & INSPIRATION

1. Make your guests part of it

A celebrant ceremony gives you the freedom to make your guests genuinely part of the day, not just an audience. Group promises are a beautiful example, where family and friends make their own commitment to love and support you throughout your married life. Or what about a ring warming, where your rings are passed through the hands of everyone present before you exchange them? When your guests have a role to play, the atmosphere in the room shifts completely and they'll talk about it long after the day is done.

2. Leave out anything you don't like

Not keen on being given away? Don't want a traditional entrance? That's entirely your call. A celebrant ceremony is built around what feels right for you, not inherited expectations or a script written for someone else. You get to keep everything you love and leave out anything you don't. No explanation needed.

3. There are no rules

No venue restrictions, no set script, no list of approved elements to pick from. A celebrant ceremony gives you complete freedom which means there's room for rituals that carry real meaning, like a handfasting, an oathing stone, or a unity candle. Room for your dog or an outdoor ceremony in a field that means the world to you, and room for something that's never been done before, an idea that's entirely yours, created just for this moment.

Dawn delivered our wedding ceremony and it was beautiful. She has been fantastic to work with, meeting us in person and over video call, providing questionnaires, and advice and guidance throughout to help shape our perfect day. We had personal vows, which I initially struggled with, but Dawn helped me find the words and confidence to deliver them on the day. We had oathing stones in our ceremony, which Dawn organised and presented to us, along with our printed vows. A lovely touch. If you want a personalised ceremony that can be as non-traditional or quirky as you are, I highly recommend Dawn.

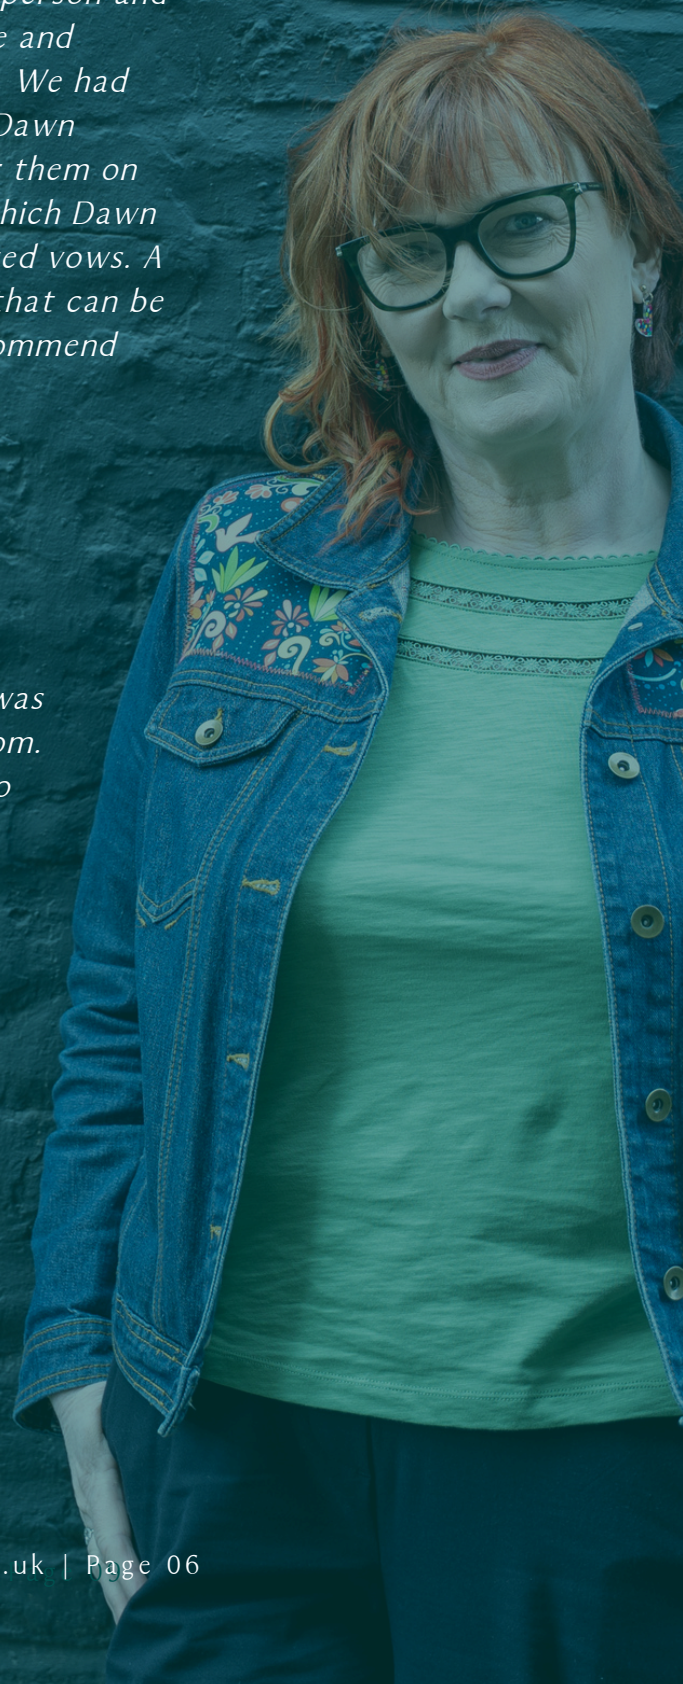

Laura Tipple

Wow, what a joy to share in this special day. Dawn was fantastic and her words touched everyone in the room. I told her afterwards that when I marry I want her to host my ceremony, it was that personal and so professionally delivered.

Absolutely five star experience with her, highly recommend.

Kay Thomas

Ready to chat?

I'd love to hear all about your plans!

Email: dawn@dawnvincentcelebrant.co.uk

Phone: 07349 269511

Social: @dawnvincentcelebrant

Website: www.dawnvincentcelebrant.co.uk

