COMPANY PROFILE

About Us

Founded in Tanzania, Al Moyo Trading Ltd., is a dedicated meat and agro export company committed to delivering premium-quality agricultural and livestock products to global markets. We operate at the intersection of modern processing standards and Tanzania's rich natural resources, creating a reliable bridge between local producers and international buyers.

Our core strength lies in responsible sourcing, strict quality control, and efficient export logistics. We work closely with trusted farmers, ranchers, and cooperatives to ensure that every product meets international safety and hygiene standards while supporting sustainable agricultural practices. From farm selection to final shipment, our processes are built on transparency, traceability, and consistency.

We specialize in the export of high-grade meat products and selected agro commodities, carefully processed and packaged to preserve freshness and nutritional value. Our facilities follow recognized food safety protocols, and our team continuously monitors compliance with global export requirements. This allows us to serve partners across multiple regions with confidence and reliability.

At Al Moyo, we combine operational discipline, ethical sourcing, and international market expertise to deliver products our customers can depend on – shipment after shipment.

Meat

Halal-certified goat, sheep, and beef from Tanzania are recognized for their natural quality, ethical handling, and strict adherence to international food standards. Raised in open grazing environments with access to clean water and natural feed, Tanzanian livestock develop strong muscle structure and clean flavor profiles that are highly valued in export markets.

Our halal process follows certified slaughter practices under qualified supervision, ensuring compliance with Islamic requirements while maintaining the highest standards of hygiene and animal welfare. Each stage — from selection to processing — is carefully controlled to preserve freshness, texture, and nutritional integrity. Rapid chilling, modern cutting facilities, and export-grade packaging protect product quality throughout the cold chain.

Tanzania's climate and expansive grazing lands contribute to leaner meat with balanced fat content, resulting in tender cuts suitable for both premium retail and bulk supply. Every batch undergoes rigorous inspection for safety, traceability, and consistency, meeting the expectations of international buyers who demand reliability and purity.

The result is halal meat that is clean, responsibly sourced, and export-ready — delivering authentic taste, dependable quality, and full certification assurance with every shipment.

Avocado

Tanzanian avocados are valued in international markets for their rich texture, natural ripening profile, and consistent export quality. Grown in fertile highland regions with ideal rainfall and mineral-rich soil, the fruit develops high oil content and a smooth, creamy flesh preferred by premium buyers.

Our avocados are cultivated through controlled farming practices that emphasize soil health, responsible water use, and careful harvesting methods to prevent bruising. Each fruit is hand-selected at optimal maturity to ensure uniform size, appearance, and shelf stability. Post-harvest handling follows strict grading and sorting standards, supported by modern packing facilities that maintain freshness throughout transit.

Cold-chain management and export-grade packaging protect the fruit during shipment, preserving flavor, firmness, and nutritional value. Every consignment undergoes quality inspection for traceability, hygiene, and compliance with international phytosanitary requirements.

Thus we source export-ready avocado produce that combines natural Tanzanian growing advantages with disciplined quality control – delivering clean appearance, long shelf life, and dependable consistency for global distribution.

Pineapple

Tanzanian pineapples are known for their natural sweetness, vibrant color, and high juice content, making them highly desirable in fresh export markets. Grown in warm tropical conditions with fertile soil and balanced rainfall, the fruit develops a rich aroma and a consistently sweet flavor profile.

Our pineapples are cultivated using disciplined farming practices that focus on plant health, soil management, and careful harvesting at peak ripeness. Each fruit is handpicked and graded to ensure uniform size, visual appeal, and export quality.

Modern grading and packing operations are designed to protect the fruit's natural structure while preparing it for long-distance transport. Pineapples are cleaned, sorted, and packed using export-standard materials that minimize handling stress and prevent damage. Each batch is organized for uniformity, allowing buyers to receive consistent presentation and sizing across shipments.

A tightly managed logistics chain ensures that the fruit reaches international markets in peak condition. Temperature control, careful container loading, and monitored transit preserve the pineapple's natural sugars, firmness, and aroma. The outcome is a fresh, market-ready product that reflects Tanzania's growing reputation for high-quality tropical produce and dependable export performance.

Banana

Tanzanian bananas are cultivated in nutrient-rich soils and tropical growing conditions that support steady maturation, natural sweetness, and firm texture.

The combination of warm climate and careful crop management produces fruit with consistent color, clean appearance, and balanced flavor suitable for both fresh consumption and export markets.

Farms follow controlled harvesting schedules to ensure bananas are picked at the correct stage of maturity, allowing optimal ripening during transit.

Each bunch is handled with care to prevent bruising and maintain structural integrity. Selection and grading processes focus on uniform size, quality, and visual appeal to meet international buyer expectations.

Professional packing and transport systems protect the fruit from damage while maintaining freshness. Temperature-managed logistics support stable ripening and shelf life, ensuring that shipments arrive in strong market condition.

The result is export-quality Tanzanian bananas known for reliability, freshness, and consistent presentation across every consignment.

Cashew

Tanzanian cashews are internationally recognized for their large kernel size, natural sweetness, and clean taste. Grown in coastal regions with ideal humidity and mineral-rich soil, the nuts develop strong shells and high-quality kernels prized in premium food markets.

Harvesting is carried out during peak maturity to protect kernel integrity and flavor. After collection, cashews are carefully dried, sorted, and processed under controlled conditions to maintain hygiene and nutritional value. Strict grading standards ensure uniform color, size, and texture, meeting the expectations of global buyers.

Modern processing and packaging systems protect the kernels from moisture and contamination while preserving freshness during export. Each shipment undergoes quality inspection and traceability checks to guarantee consistency and compliance with international food standards.

Long-term partnerships with farmer cooperatives support stable supply and responsible production practices. Training in post-harvest handling and quality management helps maintain international standards while strengthening local agricultural communities.

This integrated approach ensures dependable volume, consistent grading, and sustainable growth across the cashew value chain.

Coffee

Tanzanian coffee is valued for its bright acidity, full body, and complex flavor profile shaped by high-altitude growing regions and volcanic soil. Carefully cultivated in ideal microclimates, the beans develop distinctive aroma and character that appeal to specialty and commercial markets worldwide.

Coffee cherries are handpicked at peak ripeness to preserve flavor integrity and ensure consistent quality. Post-harvest processing is managed through controlled washing, drying, and sorting methods that protect bean structure and enhance natural taste notes. Strict grading standards maintain uniformity in size, color, and moisture content.

Professional storage and export handling safeguard freshness and prevent contamination. Each shipment is prepared under monitored conditions that preserve aroma and cup quality throughout transit. Compliance checks and traceability systems ensure that buyers receive coffee that meets international quality and safety requirements.

Strong collaboration with local growers supports sustainable farming practices and long-term supply reliability. Investment in training, quality control, and infrastructure strengthens the entire production chain, allowing Tanzanian coffee to reach global markets with dependable consistency and premium reputation.
