Hi, I'm Daisy!

AUTHOR

Daisy Bates has spent her life showing up for the people she loves — and making sure every child in her presence knows that they are safe, seen, and capable of something wonderful.

A wife, mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, and civil rights advocate from Natchez, Mississippi, Daisy has watched generations of her family grow. She has held the hands of grandchildren and great-grandchildren on their first days of something new, whispered the reassurances that parents have whispered since the beginning of time, and watched every single time as a child who was nervous became a child who was brave.

She spent years working in childcare — years of being the woman on the other side of the door, the one who received the nervous child and the worried parent and knew from experience that the fear was real and the joy that followed it was even realer.

That combination of grandmother's love and childcare professional's understanding is what makes The Daisy Series unlike any other children's book series being published today. It is not written from the outside looking in. It is written from the inside — from memory and from love.

The characters are her family. Daisy is herself. The love is real.
